FROM THE DESK OF MARK IMBROGNO

SINCE WE LAST gathered as the Morgantown Area Partnership at the annual dinner to celebrate our community, our membership, our awardees, our Board of Directors and our staff, a lot has happened.

The COVID-19 pandemic has touched the lives of everyone around the world, the United States, West Virginia and right here in our community. It has either taken or impacted the health of too many; it has changed the way we do business and it has put a tremendous strain on the healthcare system and its workers.

The Partnership Board of Directors decided the 2022 Annual Dinner would focus on the dedication, hard work and the success of our healthcare workers as well as the member companies who have used determination, innovation, partnerships, teamwork and good, old West Virginian stubbornness to succeed during the challenges of the past two years.

Mark Imbrogno

After three attempts to hold the annual dinner in a safe manner where our healthcare heroes can step away from their work for a moment to be recognized, we have scheduled the event for April 12. We look forward to hosting over 600 community leaders at the Morgantown Marriott at Waterfront Place to celebrate past accomplishments and to move forward onto more successes.

The Partnership will celebrate its third anniversary in April. The last time we gathered, the Partnership was less than a year old and we discussed its goals and purpose.

Remember, the Partnership is comprised of the Morgantown Area Chamber of Commerce, the Monongalia County Development Authority, the Morgantown Area Economic Partnership and the Campus Neighborhoods Revitalization Corp., so their collective successes make up the Partnership.

The Partnership's budget continues to grow with the addition of new Investor Partner-Level memberships that now make up more than half the total budget. The increase allows for more services to our 537 members and the community.

This past year we also reorganized to reflect the long-range plan of the Partnership's staffing. In addition to Russ Rogerson, president and CEO, we added Erik Carlson as VP of Economic Development Services and Anna Carrier as VP of Chamber Services to staff. We promoted Amy Loomis to VP of Revitalization Services to round out the new management team. Although the Partnership staff works with all aspects of the organization, these three will also spend a good deal of time focused on the key services they represent.

Tanya Skeens was named the Partnership's business manager to complete the full-time team members. Long-time community leader and retired banker, Charlie Sims is our chief membership associate and Brooke Bolyard provides our marketing and communications services via contract.

Charged with the responsibility of the organization's direction, budget, planning and more, the Partnership Board of Directors is at full strength with 34 members.

With your continued involvement and support, the best is yet to come in 2022 and beyond.

MARK IMBROGNO is chairman of the Partnership board.

SMALL, MEDIUM BUSINESSES OF THE YEAR

Mountaineer Tech, 1st United to be honored

BY HALEY MOZINGO

HMozingo@DominionPost.com

Two area businesses will be named Small Business and Medium Business of the Year at this year's Morgantown Area Partnership Annual Dinner.

Mountaineer Technology Consultants, 250 Scott Ave., #2, Morgantown, is the Small Business of the Year.

Mountaineer Tech is a full-service consulting firm that covers a wide range of IT needs, including networking, hardware, software websites and social media management. The business aims to be a one-stop-shop for people to get everything they need to help their businesses grow.

"I feel like the way we do IT at Mountaineer Tech is different from what you're going to get from other tech companies," said Booker Walton, majority owner of Mountaineer Tech. "We create relationships, and not transactions."

Since 2017, Mountaineer Tech has cemented itself as a foremost IT company in north-central West Virginia and beyond.

"We don't work for recognition, but to be recognized for what we do is something that is very rewarding, and I'm very appreciative of that," said Walton. "We are thankful for the community. No small business can survive without the support of the community that they work in. It's been a blessing."

First United Bank & Trust is the Medium Business of the Year. First United has local branches in Cheat Lake, Sabraton, Suncrest Towne Centre and Star City.

First United Bank & Trust is a full-service financial institution that does everything from traditional banking, including personal and business loans and deposits, to financial planning, succession and wealth planning. There is an in-house wealth department that does broker transactions and manages assets, as well as a commercial area that takes care of businesses of all sizes.

"It is extremely humbling. We strive to really support our community," said Kimberly Moyers, vice president and managing director of Client Relationships. "Being recognized as the Medium Business of the Year was a great honor to know that we truly are making an impact."

LARGE BUSINESS OF THE YEAR

WVU Medicine, Mon Health share award

BY DAVID BEARD

DBeard@DominionPost.com

WVU Medicine and Mon Health System are joint winners of the Morgantown Area Partnership's Large Business of the Year award.

This category is for businesses employing 51 or more people "that display outstanding corporate citizenship, community involvement and commitment to the Partnership."

MAP President and CEO Russ Rogerson said the theme of this year's dinner and awards is the COVID response and frontline workers.

Regarding this award, he said, "The intent is, yes, recognizing those institutions, but more importantly the thousands of people who work for them and have gone above the call of duty to manage this

Albert Wright

COVID health care for almost two years now." Rogerson said WVUM President and CEO Albert Wright and Mon Health President and CEO David Goldberg, along with the three winners of the Chairman's Award, "all point to the literally thousands of health care workers and National Guard who stepped forward. Nobody signed up for a pandemic."

Goldberg focused on the joint efforts of the two health systems.

"While we are two distinct, separate organizations, one thing we are unified in is to take the best care of our communities. North-central West Virginia has the best health care. Together, we help cover the community and we did it well. "And that recognition from the Partnership showed that together," he said, "we're better providing care in collaboration to take care of the communities we're charged to serve. And to see our first responders recognized en masse is a testimony of what makes West Virginia so special, and we're so honored."

David Goldberg

Wright said WVU Health System is committed to the state and beyond.

"We are honored that the Morgantown Area Partnership has named the WVU Health System one of its two Large Businesses of the Year," Wright said. "As the state's largest private employer, we are both a catalyst for job growth and economic expansion, as well as a magnet for leading physicians and providers who come from all over the world to practice medicine here. Our commitment is to continue building a world-class academic health system for the people of West Virginia and beyond while further expanding opportunities for West Virginians to build a long-term career with us."

With the pandemic in its third year, Goldberg said, Mon Health and WVU have come together on many opportunities, including vaccinations and vaccine clinics, testing and policies and procedures.

NONPROFIT OF THE YEAR

Transit services not always noticed

BY BEN CONLEY

BConley@DominionPost.com

Mountain Line Executive Director Dave Bruffy knows the services provided by the transit authority often go unnoticed.

He can live with that.

"That's in many ways a good thing. It just becomes a part of people's daily lives. If you don't have a personal auto or have circumstances arise where you can't get to work or school, or to a doctor's appointment, the grocery store or to see family or friends, that's the critical service Mountain Line provides," Bruffy said. "That's the role we play in the community."

It's also a big part of the reason Mountain Line will be honored as Nonprofit of the Year when the Morgantown Area Partnership holds its annual dinner in April.

"Mountain Line is such a lifeline for so many residents who do not have other forms of transportation," MAP President and CEO Russ Rogerson said. "This award is really to recognize the years of growth and committed service they've provided to residents throughout Mon County, and the excellent work they do, particularly during the COVID pandemic we've been struggling with."

Through various programs and in-house initiatives, Mountain Line has provided thousands of rides to addiction treatments, gives free bus passes to county taxpayers and a no-charge lift on Election Day. Recently, the transit authority reworked bus routes and handed out bus passes to increase availability for folks trying to access social services at Hazel's House of Hope, on Scott Avenue.

These are just some examples. There are many others — all while struggling through driver and equipment shortages and the burdensome restrictions and added costs associated with running buses in the midst of a viral pandemic.

"The fact that our community has supported us with [levy] funding and now to have the Morgantown Area Partnership recognize us for the effort that everyone's made — from the board all the way to the folks who contracted to help us keep the buses sterilized during the pandemic — it is very gratifying," Bruffy said.

"It's just hard to measure the value of public transit, not just us, but any public transit system within a community. People depend on it. So it's nice to see that appreciation and be able to share it with all the people who have put in the work to make it happen."

Businesses and organizations are nominated for awards by MAP membership and selected by an award committee.

United Way of Monongalia and Preston County was the last recipient of the nonprofit award.

CHAIRMAN'S AWARD

Honor goes to 3 for fight against COVID

BY DAVID BEARD

DBeard@DominionPost.com

This year's Morgantown Area Partnership Chairman's Award goes jointly to three people: COVID-19 czar Dr. Clay Marsh, Monongalia County Health Department Medical Director and County Health Officer Dr. Lee Smith, and Joint Interagency Task Force Director Gen. James Hoyer.

MAP President and CEO Russ Rogerson said the theme of this year's dinner and awards is the COVID response and frontline workers. The Chairman's Award goes to the three for their overall management efforts at the state and county levels.

The Dominion Post was able to reach Marsh and Smith to talk to them about the award.

Marsh said, "Of course I was very flattered and humbled to be recognized with these other recipients. It's always a privilege to serve." But others have been on the front lines, too. "We are really just the folks who get more TV time and recognition in some ways."

James Hoyer

Marsh addressed the question about how overseeing the pandemic response with the governor's team has affected him. "Working with the governor and the task force, Lee Smith, the whole team, has been just remarkable and I've met so many wonderful people," he said.

He continued, "The real blessing of this experience for me, is I've learned how much I really appreciate the truly priceless gifts that we all have." It's easy to get distracted by goals and metrics comparing ourselves to others.

"To have our health, to have our family, to be able to spend the time doing things that you're really passionate about, or you can serve other people, is just such an extraordinary blessing. I really rediscovered how much I am grateful for so many things."

He's also pleased with the state's unity in the pandemic, he said. "I'm very proud of the way we've responded to COVID as a team and I'm proud of the way we've stayed together. ... West Virginia is starting to reveal itself as a place where there's smart people doing good work and being innovative, and that may portend to a much better future for all of us."

Smith said, "An award like this is prestigious and quite an honor to be recognized."

But he's not accepting for himself, he's accepting it on behalf of the whole health department, he said. "It's been a team endeavor."

There's no currently defined metric for success in terms of number of hospitalizations, deaths and infections, he said, "Monongalia County has a really good track record, relatively speaking, with all of those parameters, and we can hold our heads high that we have one of the best performances."

And the health department has grown, he said, doubling the number of employees, seeing many volunteers step up, and outgrowing its building — now taking up four buildings and a warehouse.

He named many who've helped the department's efforts through the pandemic: the health board, the Monongalia County Commission, emergency management, the two health systems, state COVID leadership, the National Guard, and internally the program managers and the unsung heroes in the business office.

"All together, we built a public health machine and I think it's really been a labor of love for those people who work in the arena of public health," he said. Hopefully this is a once-in-a-lifetime challenge. "I'm happy that the people I work with have been the consummate professionals and willing to show up daily to take on these difficult tasks."

NEW BUSINESS OF THE YEAR

Sparkle Janitorial goes from in-home to storefront

BY HALEY MOZINGO

HMOzingo@DominionPost.com

Sparkle Janitorial Supply has been named the Morgantown Area Partnership's New Business of the Year.

In 2018, Julie Zuercher, owner of Sparkle Janitorial Supply, first operated the business out of her home with no other employees. Within the first few months of the COVID-19 pandemic, the business grew dramatically.

Since then, the business has grown into a full-service janitorial company, and it opened its storefront in July 2020.

Sparkle Janitorial Supply, 17 Cleveland Ave., Westover, offers residential and commercial cleaning. Its featured products include hand sanitizers, car-detailing products and disinfecting wipes and sprays.

"I'm super excited and appreciative of the Partnership for awarding this to us," said Zuercher. "Our team has worked hard to be successful and we appreciate the recognition."

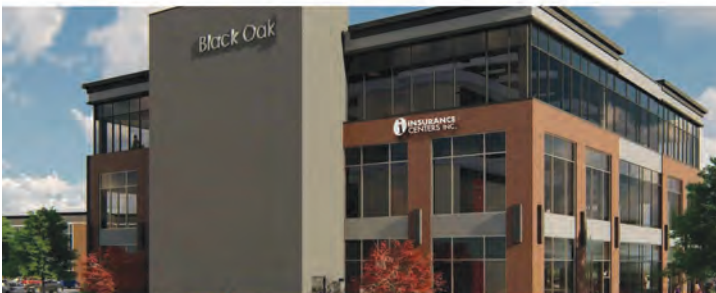

Sparkle Janitorial Supply, and other businesses, will be honored at Morgantown Area Partnership's Annual Chamber of Commerce Dinner, which will be held in April at the Morgantown Marriott at Waterfront Place.

For more information, see Sparkle Janitorial Supply's website sparklejanitorials.com.

VETERAN-OWNED BUSINESS OF THE YEAR

Ziebart here to serve the community

BY WILL DEAN

WDean@DominionPost.com

Ziebart of Morgantown is the Morgantown Area Partnership's Veteran-owned Business of the Year 2021.

"It means a lot, you know, just to serve this community and be a veterans community. The fact that we're just out here every day to help people. One thing I've found is that in Morgantown and West Virginia, they work hard for the vehicles they have and drive, and the fact that we're able to extend the life and value of those vehicles means a lot to us," said Nick Lambie, who owns Ziebart with his twin brother, Mark.

Ziebart opened in June 2019 and Lambie said the

Ron Rittenhouse/The Dominion Post

Nick Lambie at Ziebart.

reception has been great.

"There's a need for what we're doing. You know, we've grown tremendously over two years, even after the pandemic, and we were a new Franchise of the Year for Ziebart," Lambie said.

Ziebart provides appearance and structural protection for vehicles, Lambie said. The protection is offered through undercoating, rust-proofing, rhino lining, ceramic coating and paint protection film.

"We're basically the one-stop-shop for all your after-market needs as it relates to your vehicle protection," Lambie said.

Scott Myers said you can't beat Ziebart's products. Meyers drives from Clarksburg while his dad drives from Charleston.

"My dad's truck is about 22 years old, and it looks like the day it left off the lot because of the products that Ziebart offers," Myers said. "The undercoating, the paint protectant and I've got the ceramic coat on my truck, and you can't beat the product."

Lambie is a current member of the Air National Guard and spent nine years on active duty. He discovered Ziebart while stationed in New York.

"I bought a brand-new car for my wife, and I had Ziebart'd it because Ziebart was big in New York, and they waive all franchise fees for veterans, and I was kind of looking for my way out. We just had a conversation. And here we are."

Sarah Woodrum, 2021 chairperson of the Partnership, said, "Ziebart is a relatively new business to our area and has done an amazing job of serving our community. I am excited to see them receive this recognition."

EARL L. CORE AWARD

Tom Witt makes Morgantown his community

BY JIM BISSETT

JBissett@DominionPost.com

Let it sink in: For 52 years, Tom Witt has been preaching, by example, all those things he was teaching, in all those WVU classrooms, to generations of budding entrepreneurs.

The retired university economist is the recipient of the Earl L. Core Award for Service, the Partnership's most prestigious award, and there's reason for that.

For Witt, it's never been fully about cost ledgers. It's been about life, too.

When he arrived on campus in 1970, he quickly made friends. No Ivory Tower for him.

Same for that's-not-how-it-works-in-the-real-world hypo-

Tom Witt

theticals with widgets, either.

He got to know the merchants on High Street — and in 1970, High Street was the business hub here — and he surmised very quickly what foot traffic from a vibrant downtown campus can mean for a specialty shop.

Communities quickly because part of his wheelhouse, too, since West Virginia is nothing but a string of small towns up and down Interstate 79.

If there was a board, he would get himself appointed. He'd at least go to meetings.

As the-then director of the university's Bureau of Business and Economic Research, he daily provided the data — the real-time, real-life numbers — that translated into effort, for the state that became his home.

Every year, he crafted West Virginia's economic forecast, which he always tried to present as a road map out, as well.

These days, he's an independent business consultant, a Mountaineer with an open ear for the people not afraid to dream.

Because the Partnership is built on such entrepreneurial spirit, he'll thump the tub for anyone making the attempt.

That doesn't mean, though, he won't ask the hard questions, from across the table.

He'll lob out the — seemingly — obvious ones, also, such as: "What exactly is your business?"

(As it turns out, a lot of people aren't always sure).

Three years ago, he and his wife, Grethe Myles, established the Tom S. Witt Scholars Program, which provides that all-important, real-world experience for WVU business students.

"We all live here," he said.

"And when we take care of one another, it's all our success."

ENTREPRENEUR OF THE YEAR

Atkins at the helm at family owned City Neon

BY JIM BISSETT

JBissett@DominionPost.com

Chris Atkins grew up in the family business.

Now 31, he is vice president and operations manager of City Neon, the company his grandfather, Earl "Bud" Atkins, founded in his house in Star City in 1948.

Don't think he's some pampered, entitled boss' grandkid, though.

Not hardly.

The backstory on Chris Atkins and the family business operations that earned the distinction of Milan Puskar Entrepreneur of the Year for 2021 tells it.

Atkins, the elder, incorporated the company 58 years ago.

It was a family business

Chris Atkins

all the backlit adornments at Mountaineer Field and the WVU Coliseum.

And it was all Atkins, the protégé, knew growing up.

Chris Atkins got good grades in school and qualified for the Promise Scholarship even, but when he enrolled at WVU, then dropped out and re-enrolled at Fairmont State ... the glow went dark.

"I figured out that I didn't then, and it's a family business now. You see its handiwork everywhere, from the signage at Mylan Park and Mon Health Medical Center to want to sit in a classroom," he said.

"I wanted to go to work for the company."

City Neon, now at 1095 Chaplin Road, Morgantown.

Chris' mother, and Bud's daughter, Carol Atkins, very much wanted her son to go to college — just because.

And, in the ways of resourceful, determined moms everywhere, she knew just what to do.

She assigned her son every arduous, back-breaking job she could think of.

Chris would be chipping away at concrete footers one day. He'd be out the next day, sunburned and sore, using a shovel and a jackhammer to extract a grease pit — only to step off to one side so heavy machinery could move in, to do in seven minutes what it took him seven hours to accomplish.

He now runs the company with his mom and his brother, Nick.

"I've literally done every job in this place," Chris said.

So, what might Bud Atkins think of that little start-up in his basement now?

His grandson likes to picture him smiling down at the proceedings, with a glowing heart.

You know: Just like neon.

"There's a lot of good people working at City Neon and our other companies," he said.

"And I think he'd really be proud."
