Heart & Vascular receives ACC electrophysiology accreditation

Mon Health Heart & Vascular Center's electrophysiology program is the first and only such program in the state to receive the American College of Cardiology electrophysiology accreditation.

Program medical director Dr. Salam Shaity explained what electrophysiology is. It deals with heart rhythm problems, such as AFIB. "We're like the electricians of the heart." The cardiac plumbers deal with the blood vessels, and he deals with the electrical system.

They deal with slow and fast rhythms, with symptoms such as palpitations, dizziness and passing out, with heart failure with risk of sudden cardiac death.

They might treat problems with cardiac devices such as pacemakers or defibrillators. "We are pioneers in the emerging field of leadless pacemakers."

But most of their work is ablation — going into the heart with catheters to freeze (cryoablation) or cauterize (radio frequency ablation) the abnormal rhythm. They used to do it with flouroscopy, but now with ultrasound without radiation.

"We are also acquiring the new technology of pulsed field ablation that was just approved by FDA and will perform the first case in the state this month," Shaity said.

Lee Smith retiring after a decade as Mon County's top doctor

Lee Smith had it all worked

After a career in emergency medicine, the good doctor figured he'd throttle down, coast into retirement in a leisurely more role.

So, he signed on run Monongalia County Health Department.

Five years, he told them, and I'm outta here.

That was 10 years and one global pandemic ago.

"Boy, oh boy," Smith said with a kind of reflective chuckle. "Little did I know."

Now five years behind schedule, Smith, 71, is retiring.

Dr. Brian Huggins will join MCHD in May as its next medical director and county health officer. Smith's tenure will conclude shortly thereafter.

Looking back from an outside perspective — and with all due respect — Smith's plan was never realistic.

You see, he's simply not the type to throttle down and coast into anything.

A Navy-trained son Appalachia born to a blue-collar family, Smith went to work at 14. He eventually earned his way into the eye of the storm known as a short-order kitchen.

"The lessons learned in that helped me throughout my life because you've got things that cook quick and you've got things that cook slow and the orders just keep coming in. You're always juggling and balancing the entire thing. An emergency department is not too dissimilar," he said.

Because honestly: How many times have you seen a kid and a horse trotting through the main lobby like that?

Given some of the things that have transpired in hotels over the years — what with your roomdemolishing rock stars and all that — the a.m. occurrence at this one probably wasn't a "miracle," by definition. However, Addison Schrock (the kid in the equation), most certainly is.

Addison, who is 10, is the Children's Miracle Network Hospitals Champion Child for the state of West Virginia this year.

WVU Medicine Children's is part of that network, and the hospital successfully treated Addison for a scary neurological condition that could have killed her.

She did, in fact, go into cardiac arrest in a hallway at the hospital after her parents finally got her to Morgantown — following their daughter's sudden, sharp medical decline during a vacation three years go.

Not that Christa and Marcus wanted to go to the beach anyway.

They did it for Addison. They did it because of a misdiagnosis.

'We're going to the ER'

Addison, a normally outgoing kid who likes horses (her family has three) and math (kid has a head for numbers) had been dealing with bouts of "night terrors" — those episodes of screaming, flailing and even getting out of bed and running while still asleep.

Doctors at first said it was maybe stress or anxiety.

If Addison was shouldering a more-than kidsized share of angst for whatever reason, they said, a family road trip her parents had been wanting to cancel might be the best medicine.

She could build sandcastles and romp in the waves lapping the shore, the thoughts went. It was hardly a respite.

Back then, though, it was a mantra and soothing balm for Chicago Cubs fans getting their tickets torn for a game — during those technicolor afternoons in the mid-20th century at Wrigley Field, which occasionally made the black-and-white newsreel.

Cubs fans where already stoic and philosophical about the whole thing, anyway.

They at least knew they were going to get a pleasant, leisurely day out of the deal at the venerable neighborhood park.

While the jukes on the South Side were ruled by Muddy Waters and Howlin' Wolf, Wrigley on the North Side could boast Ernie Banks ("Mr. Cub") and, for a couple of good seasons anyway, another teammate equally known by his nickname:

Sam "Toothpick" Jones, of Grant Town, Marion County.

The first Black player in Major League history to pitch a no-hitter.

Ernie was smooth and consistent, like the pistons in a V-8 Cadillac Eldorado, but Sam was the one to watch — because he couldn't help but make everything into a page-turner of a mystery novel, when he'd nod at the sign and launch the seamed sphere.

But on to that game. The game.

GO-WV, other groups pen letter to U.S. energy secretary objecting to LNG export pause

BY DAVID BEARD

DBeard@DominionPost.com

The Gas & Oil Association of West Virginia — GO-WV — has joined with two other regional gas and oil groups to object to and point out the likely negative consequences of President Biden's decision to pause liquefied natural gas exports.

GO-WV, the Ohio Oil & Gas Association and the Marcellus Shale Coalition sent the letter to U.S. Energy Secretary Jennifer Granholm on Thursday. The GO-WV notified Dominion Post on Friday. Their thoughts echo the thoughts of Sens. Shelley Moore Capito and Joe Manchin and other lawmakers.

They began, "As the voices of Appalachia's natural gas and oil industries and the workers contributing to our nation's energy security, we are writing to express our deep concern with the ill-advised delay on reviewing and issuing new liquefied natural gas (LNG) export permits, and the consequences this will have on America's global standing, environmental and clean air progress, and energy-related jobs across our region.'

Biden issued the pause on Jan. 26, saying in a White House fact sheet, climate change is the existential threat of our time — and we must act with the urgency it demands to protect the future for generations to

The pause affects exports to non-FTA (free trade agreement) countries until the Department of Energy can update the underlying analvses for authorizations. The White House says the analyses are outdated and no longer adequately account for considerations like potential energy cost increases for American consumers and manufacturers beyond current authorizathe latest assessment of the impact of greenhouse gas emissions.

"Today, we have an evolving understanding of the market need for LNG, the long-term supply of LNG, and the perilous impacts of methane on our planet," it says. The U.S. is the world's top LNG "today's exporter and announcement will not impact our ability to continue supplying LNG to our allies in the near-term."

The Thursday letter points out that Appalachia provides a third of the world's natural gas supply and its production is fundamental to the long-term stability of energy markets.

Since 2009, when the shale revolution began. they wrote, gas prices have dropped in half and domestic natural gas prices have remained affordable, "and well below the high fluctuating price environment we experienced before the shale revolution."

While Biden bases his pause on environmental out that natural gas produced in Appalachia has the lowest methane intensity of any other major producing region and is directly responsible for the significant drop in U.S. criteria emissions over the past decade. "As a result, our air is cleaner today than at any point since the dawn of the industrial revolution, and millions of Americans with respiratory challenges are benefiting each and every day."

Appalachia's greenhouse gas emissions are 22% lower than in 2018, they wrote.

In 2022, Appalachia's overall greenhouse gas emissions intensity dropped 22% compared to 2018. Specific to methane, the basin's intensity is 0.09% after reducing its already nationleading low intensity by a considerable 11% in 2021. Clean Air Task Force and Ceres data shows.

"Reducing our nation's ability to supply foreign concerns, the groups point markets," they wrote, "does not reduce the demand: it simply forces our allies to rely on Russian natural gas that carries a 65% higher methane intensity than that from the U.S. That's bad for our economy, bad for our national security, and bad for the environment."

Lawmaker comments

On Thursday, Capito, ranking member of the Environment and Public Works Committee, joined with Sen. John Barasso, R-Wyo. and ranking member of the Energy Committee, and other GOP leaders to comment on Biden's move.

She called the move 'absolutely a political strategy move to try to attract more voung environmental voters after some of the decisions that he's made, and to me, do we really want to stake our national security and our international reliability and security on such a flimsy and I think. unfounded decision?"

Russia and Iran are the No. 2 and No. 3 natural gas producers, she said. "So with West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio what does this do? It shuts down workers, shuts down families being able to stay in their communities, feed their families, and provide for the national security by being the energy independent country that we know they are."

Manchin, Energy Committee chair, held a hearing on the topic on Thursday. He highlighted the ramping up of U.S. energy production and LNG exports. "A lot has changed in a few years and there are sensible reasons to update the market assessments that DOE uses when reviewing export applications to ensure the trajectory we're on won't risk harming American families and businesses. But these types of decisions should be firmly based on facts, not politics.'

health department.

For the first seven years, Smith served as MCHD's executive director as well as the county's top doc.

"I think that when I first arrived, a lot of the potential that existed here at the health department had never been realized for various and sundry reasons. Part of it is that, even though there are 55 counties, there are 48 health departments; and of those 48 health departments only four have full-time health officers," he said.

"I think it would have been easy to think 'poor pitiful me, I live between the two giants of Mon Health and WVU Medicine. What can I do?' But I think that we have answered the call whenever possible, and I think the health institutions have come to realize that public health can do a lot of things that they cannot.

THE WOW!

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11TH

That was never more evident than March 2020, when Monongalia County saw its first cases of COVID-19.

Smith recalls showing up at a local nursing home in Tyvek suits with hoods and respirators.

"It looked like we were ready to walk on the moon," he said. "As you may recall, there was a lot of uncertainty and there was fear and unsettledness in many businesses. We needed to answer the call and face the situation. So we were having daily team meetings and it was all hands on deck."

Smith and much of his staff worked long hours seven days a week for the first three months.

It was soon evident the world was facing a public health crisis.

It would be a defining moment for Monongalia County Health Department.

"I was trying to set the tone and lead by example.

lorgantown's Paint-Your-Own Pottery, Glass-Fusing, Mosaic, & Clay Studio

TODAY!

We were going to be there. We were going to do it. We basically adopted the philosophy that we had built a public health machine and we fully intended on taking it into harm's way," Smith

"We never missed a day. We were doing swabs in the community — 1,000; 2,000; 3,000 a day. We never missed a day doing contact tracing, disease investigation, making our line lists and reporting numbers."

MCHD had The 64 employees pre-pandemic. At its height, just as vaccines were being rolled out, there were 124 people working for the health department.

It was around this time Smith began to realize he couldn't work around the clock as the county's health officer and handle the administrative functions of the organization.

January Anthony DeFelice took over as MCHD's executive director. Devan Smith filled DeFelice's former role chief financial officer.

"I didn't fully realize the toll that COVID took on all of us. Once I started slowing down, I realized I couldn't do the administrative part as good as I wanted to and still do the clinical part, which had become 24/7," Smith said. "Bringing in a CEO was a godsend and so a lot of administrative things got moved off my plate. It was at that time that I really began to realize just how fatigued I

A full listing of all the programs and services and outreach efforts that fall under each of those branches is impressive in both its length and variety.

Today, the Monongalia County Health Department is the largest health department in the state in terms of employees, people served and services offered. It's also the state's only academic health department.

Smith said he believes MCHD has become an example for public health institutions in Virginia and beyond largely because he stepped into a position surrounded by dedicated, hard-working people and he was prepared to both lead and work alongside them.

Now, however, it's time to put the boat on the water and transition full-time grandpa and part-time world traveler.

"When I look back over the last decade of work, I have an immense sense of pride in what has been accomplished and some of the challenges we have faced here at Monongalia County Health Department," he said.

"It's been a lot of sweat equity. It's been a labor of love for us. I'm not feeling like I can't do the job. It's just that I feel like I've done what I was going to do here. That five years went by pretty quick. That other five they got as a bonus. Now I think it's time a younger person helps steer Sbaity briefly explained in an interview and then elaborated in an email what the accreditation means.

"It ensures to our patients that they will receive the highest quality of care by an exceptional team utilizing state-of-theart medical technology, and who have proven to consistently deliver outstanding patient outcomes through a rigorous process. It allows us to set the gold standard for heart rhythm care in the state of West Virginia and pave the way to increased access to quality care in the state." The American College of Cardiology describes the criteria it uses to award the accreditation:

Governance: optimization of the organizational platform to align dedicated personnel, operational promodel, gram staff education, and service alignment;

Quality: continuous process improvement of all aspects of care;

Pre-Procedure: dedicated to the evaluation of risk and readiness assessment through multidisciplinary screening processes and protocols to ensure the electrophysiology procedure is as safe and effective as possible;

Peri-Procedure: focused on interdisciplinary care coordination and communication surrounding sedation, infection control, radiation safety, and universal timeout protocols;

Post-Procedure: protocols and policies for appropriate handoff, site management, patient and family communication and education, and discharge instructions to promote recovery;

Clinical Quality: process improvement initiatives derived from outcomes and metrics related to the facility.

The Heart & Vascular Center applied for the accreditation, he said, and the review process took more than 18 months, including a rigorous site visit.

The accreditation is good for three years, he said, but is reviewed annually. "We have to continue to show improvement every

The lure of a coal miner's paycheck brought his family over the border to West Virginia when he was young.

Bob Armstead, who was a pretty good Golden Gloves boxer before he went to the mines, grew up with him in Grant Town.

"I never did have a knockout punch," Armstead told this reporter in 1995, three years before his death. "I was always a 'finesse' kind of fighter.'

Armstead, with the collaboration of area journalist S.L. Gardner, told that story in his well-received "Black autobiography, Days, Black Dust: Memories of an African-American Coal Miner," published by the University of Tennessee Press in 2002.

The once-and-future baseball star was the state's Marbles champion in 1937, coming back from Charleston with a new bicycle and a cash prize, Armstead remembered.

Later, they lost touch for a time, as childhood friends do.

Armstead went into boxing and then underground, to carve coal.

Jones got drafted and after his hitch in the military, began working his way through the Negro Leagues as a pitcher.

He was a star when the Cleveland Buckeyes rolled into Fairmont for an exhibition game at East-West Stadium in the early 1950s, Armstead remembered.

The Buckeyes packed the place, and the crowd was the most boisterous for Sam. "I was there," Armstead daughters, Jennifer Watson and fiancé Michael Zybell of West Virginia, and Laura Watson of Missouri; his five grandchildren, Amber Jett and Zachary Lamoureux of Virginia, Parker Longstreth of West Virginia, Kayleigh Lamons of West Virginia, Austin Lamons of Texas, and Henry Watson of West Virginia. He is also survived by his four siblings, Judy and Jack Hollen of Alabama, Patty and Ed Hopson of Florida, Charlie and Lila Watson of Arizona, and Mary Beth and Mark Welch of Alabama; and his brother-in-law Jerry Nutter of North Carolina; many nieces, a nephew, greatnieces and nephews, and great-great-nieces nephews; and many friends that felt like family. Roger was proceeded in death by his mother- and father-in-law Kenneth and Freda Nutter, and his nephew Joel Hopson.

Roger enjoyed spending time outdoors, hunting, fishing, watching the Pittsburgh Steelers and WVU football teams. But most of all, he cherished all of his time with his wife, daughters and grandchildren. Roger's battle with Parkinson's disease lasted for many years, but through it all he never lost the smile on his face nor the faith in his heart. He was a soft-spoken man with the best sense of humor until the very end. In the last few years of his battle while not being able to do many of his normal activities, he was still able to go on family vacations to his favorite vacation spot, the Outer Banks.

A celebration of life will be held for Roger at a later date. In lieu of flowers, the family is asking for donations to be made in Roger's name to McCulla Funeral Home to help with funeral expenses.

McCulla Funeral Home has been entrusted with arrangements.

Elizabeth Margaret Atkins, 78, of Morgantown,

Margaret

Margaret was born in Atkins

1945 Chambersburg, Pa., to the late John and Frances Freet. She graduated from Greenwood Joint High School in Millerstown, Pa., in 1963 and Bethany College with a bachelor of arts degree (summa cum laude) in art history in 1979. In 1966, Margaret met John Marshall Atkins in Morgantown, and they married in 1968. She and John loved each other for 55 years of marriage.

Margaret Atkins

She found pleasure in simplicity: family dinners, coffee with neighbor-sister Joan, walking in the woods, collecting seashells on the beach. She spent many happy hours cultivating herbs, flowers and vegetables in her Grandview Avenue garden. Throughout her life she loved animals, caring for dogs, a cat, a horse and a duck.

Her family and friends have numerous examples of her skill as an artist: she was known for her ornate and painstaking papercuttings following the Pennsylvania Dutch tradition of Scherenschnitte.

Margaret was happiest at Christmas time, when she was a burst of energy, decorating the house and creating beautiful ornaments for friends and family. She was joyful with family through the Christmas season just two weeks preceding her passing.

For many years she served the Morgantown chapter of the National Alliance on Mental Illness.

She is survived by her loving husband, John; son, Ben Atkins and his wife Amy: grandson, Jack Atkins; brother, John Freet Jr.; nephew, John (J.C.) Freet; niece, Rebecca Lomax: a number of greatand great-great-nieces and nephews; cousins, Betsy Jenkins and Tom Bolander. In addition to her parents. Margaret was predeceased by her brother, Benjamin Freet of Carlisle, Pa.

Services will be held at Suncrest United Methodist Church, in Morgantown, at 11 a.m. on May 4.

Grow This plants seed that ignited WVU student's passion for natural dyes and textiles

WVU Extension

Sometimes planting a seed can lead to more growth than you ever expected.

West Virginia University graduate student Cassandra Stewart is the perfect example of that. Seeds from WVU Extension's Grow This program led Cassandra, a graduate research assistant studying design and merchandising in the Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Design, to make textiles using natural dyes from flowers she grew.

After receiving a raised garden bed for Christmas in 2022, Cassandra's sister Kate wanted to try growing a garden. Kate saw an advertisement for the WVU Extension Family Nutrition Program's Grow This seeds and signed up to receive seeds for cosmic purple carrots, red ursa kale and miniature mixed color bell peppers. Growing up in Kanawha County, Cassandra and Kate's grandfather always had a big garden and the girls dreamed they would one day have a green thumb just like their grandfather. That dream became a reality when they planted the Grow This seeds, starting their gardening journey.

The Grow This program encouraged and inspired them to grow different plants, including tomatoes, zucchini, squash, lemon cucumbers, pole beans and lettuce, in addition to the seeds provided by Extension, Kate explained. She also planted marigolds, to deter animals.

One day, in her weaving and textiles development class, Cassandra told her professor and research assistant Jordon Masters about the garden she and her sister were growing.

"He told me that marigolds can be used for natural dyeing," Cassandra said. "I was interested in learning how to naturally dye and how I could use the marigold dye on my wool textiles."

But first, Cassandra had to make sure her sister would not mind if she cut off their flowers to take to the textile lab. Kate agreed, and over the next few weeks, Cassandra accumulated several bags marigolds.

farm-to-fashion Her work took shape at the Amy A. Bircher Textiles Laboratory, in the WVU Davis College.

"Throughout the summer, Cass would stay longer and longer each time she came into the textile lab to learn more," Masters said. "Seeing the pieces connect with a student, how they intersect with each other, and how they can all be applied to textiles, fashion and design is great to see."

For her final project in Masters' class, Cassandra used her new skills to make a table runner for her sewing room.

rior Court panel in El Cajon deadlocked 9-3 for the acquittal of Dr. Friederike Von Lintig. Prosecutors didn't immediately say whether they would retry her on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Serna, who was five weeks pregnant, was booked into the jail five days before her death. She was suffering from alcohol and drug withdrawals and had told the jail staff that she had used heroin hours before her arrest, prosecutors said.

Serna had vomited and had multiple seizures in the 24 hours before her death, prosecutors said, but when she passed out in front of Pascua, the nurse failed to check her vital signs and left her on the floor of her cell for about an hour before returning with deputies to begin "futile lifesaving measures."

The medical examiner determined that she died complications from chronic "polysubstance abuse."

Pascua's lawyer, Alicia Freeze, said that the nurse had only come on duty two hours before Serna's death and wasn't aware of her serious problems, according to the Union-Tribune.

"Really, no one knew how ill this woman was," Freeze

"We are disappointed that the process resulted in the criminal exoneration of a nurse who watched our unconscious daughter suffer a seizure, who then did nothing to prevent her death," said a statement from Serna's family, the Union-Tribune reported.

Gaza mediators, others warn Israel of disaster

RAFAH, Gaza Strip — Israel's neighbors and key mediators are warning of disaster and repercussions if its military launches a ground invasion in Gaza's southern city of Rafah. Israel says remaining Hamas strongholds are located there, along with over half the besieged territory's population. Israeli airstrikes killed at least 44 Palestinians in Rafah on Saturday, including more than a dozen children. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu a day earlier said he asked the military to plan for the evacuation of hundreds of thousands of people ahead of an invasion. He gave no details or timeline, but the announcement set off panic.

Republican lawmakers backing dozens of bills

JACKSON, Miss. -Diversity initiatives would be defunded or banned from universities and other public institutions under a slate of bills pending in Republican-led legislatures, with some lawmakers counting on the issue resonating with voters in this election year. Republican lawmakers have proposed about 50 bills in 20 states this year that would restrict or require public disclosure of DEI initiatives. The bills have a heavy focus on higher education. But Republicans also are sponsoring bills seeking to limit DEI in K-12 schools, state government, state contracting and pension investments. Democrats have filed about two dozen bills in 11 states that would require or promote DEI initiatives.

John Howard Gore, most beloved father, husband, caring friend and therapist to many, passed away with his family and dear friends by his side at J.W. Ruby

John Gore

Memorial Hospital on Wednesday,

Feb. 7. John was the most protective and loving father to his two children. Always mindful of their education and always making sure, through many stories from his own youth and throughout his life, his children understood the value of strong morals, humility, hard work and never giving up. One of his most important lessons being to always remember there are consequences to our actions. He made sure his children knew, even though grown, they always had a warm, loving home to which they could always return.

John put effort and pride into his home in Hillsboro he shared with his wife. Patty. Loving to spend warm days mowing his lawn, planting trees, doing many projects outside and also making sure their many pets were well tended and happy.

John grew up in Logan County, where he first developed his love of being outdoors. He would recount stories of long days wandering the woods as a child. He was an excellent marksman, but his soft heart usually won out over his love of the hunt as he cared so much for the beauty of all animals. He ultimately preferred taking pictures of nature and portraits of those he loved. Both his children have fond memories of being outdoors with their father and some eventful, and not so successful, fishing adventures. He also enjoyed walking along the Greenbrier River Trail when each of his children were young and skipping rocks, tubing down the river and watching his dogs splash in the water. As his son developed an interest in golf, John dabbled as well, and was able to share a round or two with his sonin-law who also loves the sport.

He was, after all, a poet would heart. He sometimes indulge this talent, but also being a very private man, only his closest loved ones had the privilege to read his writings and poems. John was best able to convey his quiet faith when communing with God's creation and imparting hard earned and important life lessons to his children. He looked forward to family vacations each year, especially to the beach, where he could relax in the sun and enjoy being near the ocean and his family. Celebrating Christmas and ringing in the New Year were the highlights of the year as holidays in Hillsboro were filled with love, warmth, family games, so many gifts and all of his favorite holiday meals prepared by Patty.

John was blessed with many gifts and accomplished so much in his close to 80 years of life. John graduated from Chapmanville High and served his country as an Air Force veteran. He went on to become a proud graduate of Marshall University, earning a bachelor of science degree in psychology and then master's degree in counseling and rehab. He also earned an MBA from Averett University later in life again, demonstrating the value he placed on education.

John worked in the mental health field in so many capacities throughout his long, over 55-year career. making a huge impact in the State of West Virginia. Early in his career, he taught psychology at Bluefield State College and gained experience out of state in Ashland, Ky., while working for Lansdowne Mental Health as a director. John was also the director of Mental Health with Seneca for both Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, at one time, simultaneously. He oversaw many important projects that bettered the lives of West Virginians, even traveling to New York City and Greece to present innovative mental health projects in West Virginia on a global stage. John counseled adults, children and those in the prison population and retired from Seneca Health Services just last year.

His career brought him many joys. The greatest being his wife of over 30 years, Patty. Patty and John met through their shared mental health careers and were never far from one another since that first meeting. They were able to share a rare and deep bond of marriage and career and. before John retired, shared offices only a few feet from one another.

Many in the communities of Marlinton, Hillsboro and Lewisburg will miss and remember John. He was active in the Kiwanis club in his younger years and would enjoy working the hot dog stand (with his daughter as his sidekick) during Pioneer Days. He also enjoyed watching her hunt Easter eggs during their community Easter egg hunt. Many fond memories were made and will be so very cherished.

John is survived by his devoted wife. Patty: his son. Jonathan Jacobey Gore (third-year student at WVU School of Dentistry); his daughter and son-in-law, Kristy and Nate Meadows of Fairmont; former wife, Carolyn Frankhouser of Kingwood; and many cousins, including, Sherry Church and Karen Wheeler of Salem, Ohio, and Anita Farley, Judy Conley, and JoAnn Gore of Chapmanville, and also cousin Jackie Swilley of Everett, Wash., and all of their families. He is also survived by his father-in-law. Jake Thompson of Durbin; and sister-in-law, Amy Thompson of Green Bank, and her family.

Services will be held at Wallace and Wallace Funeral Home in Arbovale, at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 11, with the Rev. Steve Meadows officiating. Burial will follow with honors conducted by the Pocahontas County Veterans Honor Corp at the Arbovale Cemetery Annex.

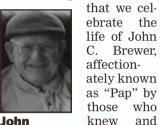

Friends may visit one hour prior to the service at the funeral home.

We will always love you, Dad, and we know you knew that. Thank you for your example, guidance, and love. These gifts will be with us and comfort us all and we know you will be with us forever and continue to guide us. We are so grateful, and we have faith we will be together again.

Allen; her son, Brian Pack; her mother, Naomi Patterson; and her beloved granddogs, Ruger and Stella. While her family, including her mama, kids and son-inlaw, held a special place in her heart, Donna often joked that the granddogs stole the show with their undeniable cuteness. Donna was preceded in death by her beloved husband and life partner, Richard Pack; her father, John Patterson; and brother, her John Patterson Jr.

Throughout her life, Donna embraced many roles with grace and dedication. She was not only a devoted daughter, wife and mother but also a highly respected medical technologist and biochemistry researcher, having contributed her talents to institutions such as WVU and NIOSH. To her cherished granddogs, she was affectionately known as the "Biscuit Lady."

Following the untimely loss of her husband, Donna faced the challenge of raising two slightly annoying teenagers as a single mother. Yet, with unwavering strength and resilience, she successfully navigated delicate between her career and her home life, always ensuring that her children and her own mother received the love and support they needed.

Donna's kind, warm and caring nature endeared her to many, and she will be fondly remembered as a loyal friend, a lover of animals, an avid reader, and a confidante always eager to catch up on family news and gossip. Despite the adversities she encountered, Donna approached life with an unwavering sense of gratitude, never once allowing hardship to dim her spirit or dampen her optimism.

Her absence leaves a profound void in the lives of those who knew and loved her, and the depth of our sorrow at her passing cannot be adequately expressed. Donna's legacy of love, strength, and resilience will continue to inspire us all, and her memory will forever be cherished in our hearts. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Donna's name to Animal Friends of North Central West Virginia, in honor of her lifelong love of animals.

A celebration of Donna's life will be held in Orlando, Fla., at a later date, where family and friends will come together to honor her memory and share stories of her remarkable life.

May she rest in eternal peace, knowing she was deeply loved and will be profoundly missed.

Straight women keep trying to flip gay man

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 41-year-old gay man. Although I was raised in a conservative, religious family, I'm out of the closet and proud to be living as myself. For much of my adult life, I have attracted mostly women. I have always tried to handle these situations with as much tact as possible. However, some women won't be let down easily. On the occasions when I have been forced to out myself to them, I have lost female acquaintances I really enjoyed spending time with or the friendship begins to deteriorate. SAFETY

WVU Extension offers training course and demonstration event

Goal is to reduce risk of injury for arborists and logging professionals

WVU Today

Arborists and loggers must use the utmost precaution in their jobs as there is a high risk of injuries and fatalities.

To reduce these risks, West Virginia University Extension Safety and Health is hosting two events, a logging demonstration and training event and a chainsaw safety and tree felling training course to improve safety conditions in the logging and arboriculture industry.

The first event offered is a Tethered and Winch Assist Steep Slope Logging Demonstration and Training that will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 11-13 at the WVU Research Forest, just outside of Morgantown.

Loggers and other industry professionals are encouraged to participate in a free Tethered and Winch Assist Steep Slope Logging Demonstration and Training event to see the latest technology and implementation of steep slope logging. There will be several logging equipment companies showcasing and demonstrating their equipment.

Participants can also watch logging safety and educational presentations and learn from logging equipment dealers throughout the three-day event. Lunch will be provided each day. Participants do not have to register for this event.

"Tethered and winch assist steep slope logging keeps all employees in the protected cab of a machine, greatly reducing the risk of being injured by falling limbs and trees and still allowing the removal of the previously inaccessible resource," said Pat Donnelly, WVU Extension Safety and Health research assistant for the Timber Safe grant. "With advancements in technology, this type of logging is making its way into the eastern hardwood forests."

WVU Safety and Health Extension is also offering a Chainsaw Safety and Tree Felling course April 18-19. Arborists in the Chainsaw Safety and Tree Felling course will be trained on chainsaw safety and ergonomics, chainsaw design, feature benefits and starting as well as technical cutting, technical felling, limbing and bucking.

The Chainsaw Safety and Tree Felling course counts toward continuing education credits for the International Society of Arboriculture's Certified Arborist program. The cost of the course is $450 per participant with lunch provided each day. All climbing gear, personal protective equipment, saws and gasoline are to be provided by the participant. The course will be at the WVU Research Forest.

Registration is required for the Chainsaw Safety and Tree Felling course.

"With the dangers that are seen on the job as an arborist and logger, proper training for chainsaw and felling can make all the difference," Donnelly

Email SafetyandHealth@mail.wvu.edu or contact Donnelly at 304-293-3096 with any questions.

Thrift store sales help fund local rescue, no-kill shelter

Tucked inside the Mountaineer Mall on Green Bag Road is The Animal Friends Thrift Shoppe.

Operated by Animal Friends of North Central West Virginia (AFNCWV), a local no-kill animal shelter, the shop offers bargains on a variety of new, antique and gently used items donated by the community.

Sales from the volunteer-run shop provide support for the Animal Friends Sanctuary, where unwanted, abandoned and abused animals saved by the rescue organization await adoption.

"I think we really fill a need for the community," said volunteer Susie Mayfield. "We provide a lot of household items, furniture, a little bit of everything, at discounted prices."

Mayfield said furniture and household items always sell fairly well and while they don't sell a lot of clothing, they usually have a few items to browse through.

At their jewelry counter, Mayfield said you could find diamonds and rubies, 14k gold rings — all of which they have appraised before sale, assuring the authenticity.

"We have some very generous people who donate," she said. "It's incredible what people donate."

Mayfield said 2023 was a really good year for the shop and that's "due to our customers — we have a lot of loyal customers — and our volunteers. We just want to thank

'Lisa Frankenstein' a fun teen take on the creature classic

MANY CRITICS TRY TO AVOID TRAILERS BEFORE THEY SEE A MOVIE so they can go in as blind as possible. I'm not one of them, so I admit I went on a journey with Zelda Williams' "Lisa Frankenstein" before it was released. The first trailer had me giving it a bit of the side-eye, but the second one had me intrigued. My actual thoughts landed somewhere in the middle of all of that.

Lisa (Kathryn Newton) lives with her milquetoast dad Dale (Joe Chrest), her overbearing stepmother Janet (Carla Gugino), and her bubbly step-sister Taffy (Liza Soberano). To avoid spending time with them, Lisa hangs out at the Bachelor's Grove Cemetery, talking to one particular grave. When a freak lightning storm brings to life that corpse

"Any donations that you make there, whether that's from a yard sale or cleaning out your basement, that's going to contribute to the animals in some way. It could be a donation from a pet that's lost, to a couch that you no longer need — that's all going to fund the shelter here and help with the dayto-day needs of taking care of these guys."

Short said the shelter has around 15 cats and 20-25 dogs looking for their forever homes.

Elon Musk's Neuralink moves legal home

Elon Musk's brain implant company Neuralink has moved its legal corporate home from Delaware to Nevada. The move came just over a week after a Delaware judge struck down Musk's $55.8 billion pay package as CEO of Tesla. Neuralink became a Nevada company on Thursday. That is according to state records. Its physical headquarters is in Fremont, California. The Delaware judge ruled Jan. 30 that Tesla's board was too cozy with Musk and the size of the package was unfair. Musk later wrote on X, formerly Twitter, that companies should not incorporate in Delaware. He wrote that shareholders of Austin, Texasbased Tesla would be asked to consider moving the company's legal home to Texas.

How to defend against food poisoning

There'll be lots of parties across the country for this weekend's Super Bowl between the San Francisco 49ers and the Kansas City Chiefs. There'll also be lots of snacks. The game can stretch for more than four hours, which can raise the risk of foodborne illness. Experts say you'll want to prepare and keep foods at the right temperature, avoid cross contamination and be mindful of leaving out perishable snacks like chicken wings, meatballs and veggie platters to keep your guests safe.

the jokes scattered throughout. I get the impression Cody appreciates teenage girls, and I thought that shone through in this film. I found the movie was served by its PG-13 rating rather than going for R. And as someone who was in high school in 1989, I absolutely loved the 80s aesthetic the movie had going for it.

My primary complaint is that it didn't have quite enough murder in it for me. Which seems an odd thing to say, but honestly, I wanted the movie to go a little harder on the horror side of things. The comedy is kind of perfect, but it bogs down in teen drama just a little too much. I think one additional killing montage could have taken this from a pretty decent movie to a fantastic one.

The performances are all fun. Soberano does a great job playing against the cheerleader type, just as Gugino leans hard into the evil stepmother bit. Newton does a great job playing the disaffected teenager. Sprouse is spectacular as the Creature, moving from a lurching mess to a pretty suave, undead Victorian boy. I found both the family dynamic and the teen dynamic all worked really well throughout the film.

This might not be among the best put out this year, but I had a good time watching it. I think if you're looking for a fun, slightly unconventional film for a Valentine's date night, you could do a lot worse than "Lisa Frankenstein.'

There is no shame in getting tested for STIs. In fact, consider it a gift to vour Valentine, the ultimate illustration that you respect yourself and your partner.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported 2022 STI numbers last spring, and while there are occasional dips, they are on the rise again. While chlamydia is down 6.2% overall since 2018, it's trending upward. In that same period, gonorrhea has gone up 11.1%; syphilis is up 78.9% and congenital syphilis when it's passed to a baby during birth — is up 183.4%.

Getting tested for STIs and using condoms during sex are both good ways to help get those numbers down.

'We've lost both engines,' pilot said before private jet crashed onto Florida interstate, killing 2

Associated Press

A pilot and co-pilot were identified as the two killed in a fiery plane crash on a Florida highway, law enforcement officials said Saturday afternoon.

The Collier County Sheriff's Office identified Edward Daniel Murphy, a 50-year-old pilot and copilot Ian Frederick Hofmann, 65, as the deceased. The three survivors were crew member Sydney Ann Bosmans, 23, and passengers Aaron Baker, 35, and Audra Green, 23, both of Columbus, Ohio. The three were taken to a local hospital for injuries. Their conditions are unknown.

Moments before the private jet slammed into a Florida highway, the pilot had calmly told an airport controller that the aircraft "was not going to make the runway" because it had lost both engines.

The jet, with five people aboard, was bound for the airport in Naples when it tried to make an emergency landing on Interstate 75 on Friday afternoon. But witnesses say it collided with a vehicle — the wing of the plane dragging a car before slamming into a wall. An explosion followed, with flames and black smoke rising from the scene.

Two people were killed, according to the Collier County Sheriff's Office.

Federal authorities have launched an investigation into the crash near Naples, just north of where the interstate heads east toward Fort Lauderdale along what is known as Alligator Alley.

The plane had taken off from an airport at Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio, about 1 p.m. It was scheduled to land in Naples around the time of the crash, Naples Airport Authority spokesperson Robin King said, when pilot contacted the tower requesting an emergency landing.

"Got that. Emergency. Clear to land. Runway. Two. Three." the air traffic controller responded to the pilot, in audio obtained by The Associated Press.

"We're clear to land, but we're not gonna make the runway. We've lost both engines," the pilot calmly replied.

The tower lost contact, and then airport workers saw the smoke from the interstate just a few miles away, King said.

King said they sent fire trucks with special foam to the scene, and three of the five people on board were taken from the wreckage WEATHER

Summer-like conditions with record temperatures lead to first Wisconsin tornadoes in February

Associated Press

EVANSVILLE, Wis. -The first tornadoes ever recorded in Wisconsin in the usually frigid month of February tore through mostly rural areas on a day that broke records for warmth, setting up the perfect scenario for the type of severe weather normally seen in the late spring and summer.

The storms left a swath of destruction that included dead and missing cows, roofs blown off of homes, destroyed storage sheds and barns, trashed vehicles and shattered windows.

At least two tornadoes were confirmed south of Madison and the National Weather Service was investigating reports of several more spawned from storms that swept across the southeastern part of the state around 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, said meteorologist Taylor Patterson.

One confirmed tornado near Evansville was a "high end" F2, the weather service said. Those tornadoes are described as "significant," with winds in this particular twister topping out at 135 mph. It was on the ground for 36 minutes, traveling 24.5 miles with a maximum width of 500 yards.

There were no reports of significant injuries. Local emergency management officials reported dozens of buildings, power lines and other structures that were damaged in the path of the storm that formed in eastern Iowa and died out near Milwaukee. The temperature was a record high for the date: 59 degrees.

"All of us are in denial that this is February," she said. "It's an absolute shock."

Matt Artis, 34, said he had just got out of the shower in his family's Town of Porter farmhouse on Thursday evening when he heard a "big bang." He got his mother and their dog, Dixie, into the bathroom just as the tornado hit. He said he emerged from the bathroom, looked up and saw nothing but the night sky. The tornado had torn the roof from their home.

Tennessee authorities search for suspect in shooting of two sheriff's deputies

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Authorities in eastern Tennessee were searching early Friday for a suspect they say was involved in a shooting that killed one sheriff's deputy and left another wounded.

Warrants have been issued for 42-year-old Kenneth DeHart, who is wanted on suspicion of first degree murder, attempted first degree murder and being a felon in possession of a firearm after the Thursday evening shooting, Blount County Sheriff James Lee Berrong said in posts on the department's Facebook page. Deputy Greg McCowan,

ing during a traffic stop. A female officer was shot in the leg and returned fire. Deputy Shelby Eggers, 22, was treated at a hospital and released to recover at home, Berrong said.

"This is the hardest thing I've ever done. We had an officer killed tonight," Berrong said during a news conference in which he was visibly upset. "I'm so sorry that we've lost a young man. I talked to his family earlier. I apologized for not protecting him.'

A reward of more than $60,000 has been offered for information that leads to an arrest, Berrong said.

"We're going to get this man off the streets of east behind bars," he said.

Multiple law enforcement agencies were involved in the hunt for DeHart, who should be considered armed and dangerous and should not be approached if spotted, the sheriff's office said.

DeHart was last seen in the city of Maryville, the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation said on social media.

McCowan began his career as a deputy in 2020 after graduating from a regional law enforcement training class, Berrong said Friday. The deputy excelled in his class and was commended in 2021 for helping save the life of a man trapped in a burning vehicle.

Texas hands WVU its largest loss ever in Big 12 play with a 36-point victory

BY JUSTIN JACKSON

JJackson@DominionPost.com

West Virginia's latest travel apparently didn't take the Mountaineers to the Moody Center in Austin, Texas.

Instead, WVU apparently went to the NBA All-Star game, where Texas put on a dunk and 3-point shooting contest and got an MVP performance from forward Dylan

It all added up to a 94-58 blowout victory for the Longhorns, who won their first home game since Jan. 20, with Disu finishing with 27 points in a near-perfect shooting performance.

The 36-point loss was WVU's largest ever in Big 12 play.

'They were the aggressor," WVU head coach Josh Eilert said on his radio postgame show. "They were 100% the aggressor. They took it to us. It was a physical game. They understood that was probably the game plan and when they're really physical with us, we struggle."

WVU (8-15, 3-7 Big 12) lost its 11th consecutive game away from the WVU Coliseum, which dates back to last season. The Mountaineers have lost nine straight away from Morgantown under Eilert, and have now lost four of their last five games overall.

This one was so bad that it literally turned into a season's worth of highlights for Texas (16-8, 5-6) in just one game.

It began with Disu, who seemed to be unguardable in the first half, making all seven of his shots, including a perfect 5 of 5 from 3-point range.

"Credit to him, he was (5 for 5) from three to start the game and he knocked down shots," Eilert said. "Once you see a couple go down, the floodgates can open for you."

ALWAYS LOOKING TO IMPROVE

J.J. Wetherholt is still on a mission to become a better baseball player

BY JUSTIN JACKSON

JJackson@DominionPost.com

It is a constant search for motivation J.J. Wetherholt seeks, a hunt for doubters of his baseball abilities to serve as his fuel.

A year ago, it was easy. All he had to do was look at his cell phone. That's where Wetherholt kept a copy of the all-Big 12 preseason team that didn't have his name on it.

"I've had this conversation before, but those guys didn't believe in me until they had no choice but to believe in me.' Wetherholt said.

It's now a year later and everyone knows Wetherholt's name and very few doubts exist.

We do mean everyone, from the Big 12 coaches who named him the unanimous 2024 Big 12 Preseason Player of the Year to the hundreds of professional scouts and major league general managers who have him projected as the top pick in July's draft.

"Nothing changes for me," Wetherholt said. "You can't let those guys dictate how you feel. It doesn't matter if they now have me No. 1 here or there, if I don't have a good year, I'm not going to be on those lists anymore."

Cameron mounts comeback to win OVAC championship over Trinity

CADIZ, Ohio — The Cameron Dragons were slow out of the gate, but they didn't stumble down the home stretch.

After falling behind 23-7 at one point in the opening quarter, the Dragons forged a path back into Saturday's OVAC Class 1A championship against the Trinity Christian Warriors, tying the game 28-28 at halftime and coming up with clutch plays down the stretch to collect the conference gold in a 56-49 victory.

Warriors close regular season with solid win over East Hardy

BY CODY NESPOR

CNespor@DominionPost.com

A down third quarter threatened an otherwise solid game by the Trinity Christian girls' basketball team finished its regular season with a 52-34 victory over East Hardy on Saturday afternoon.

The Warriors (17-5) comfortably outscored the Cougars (6-13) in the first, second and fourth quarters, but Brooklynn Tinnell scored 15 points in the third as East Hardy threatened to erase Trinity's 18-point halftime lead.

"We have a lot of skill on this team and we got away with not playing great defense at times," Trinity coach Mike Baldy said. "We know (Tinnell) for East Hardy is a really, really good player so she makes it challenging for us."

The Warriors bounced back to start the fourth quarter on a 12-3 run that locked up the win. Baldy said he hopes it wasn't a case of his team letting off the gas because they were leading at the break.

"I wish it wasn't that because the same thing happened at East Hardy." Baldy said. "We were up 20 going into half and they cut it all the way to three. I do think we recognized that and battled back a little sooner than we did at East Hardy."

Junior Kaylin Kurilko was the driving force for Trinity, scoring a teamhigh 15 points while anchoring the Warriors' defense and cleaning up on the glass. "I thought she was tremendous for us," Baldy said. "At the back of our press, the center is supposed to jump the pass up the line and steal it. We've been saying all year whichever center can start doing that will break through and be the starting center and she did that a couple times."

Tinnell finished with a game-high 26 points but couldn't get enough help as her teammates only scored eight.

Ella Lynch finished with 12 for Trinity on four triples. Jenna Barnett scored seven but needed to be helped off the court in the final minute with an injury.

With the win, the Warriors end the regular season 17-5, the winningest season under Baldy.

The team now turns its attention to the postseason, beginning with its upcoming section tournament.

"I think we can win the state championship," Baldy said. "I don't think we're the favorite to do it, but I keep telling people that (making it to Charleston) isn't our goal anymore, our goal is to win the state championship. I really think we have that kind of team this year."

Colson Wichterman, who hit the biggest shot of the game with one minute left in the fourth quarter.

Wichterman nailed a 3pointer from the left wing to put Cameron ahead by five, 50-45, and after the Dragons got a stop on defense, Trinity was forced into intentionally fouling. Cameron was in no mood to let their opponents back into the game, going 6-6 in their trips to the line to salt away the win.

"That's Colson Wichterman," Hart said. "Everybody sees him on the football field, he's a big-time player on the football field, and he's a big-time player on the basketball court as well. He knocked down that 3, he's confident, he's a great athlete, and he's a good leader for us on the floor and I had all the confidence in the world for him to knock down that shot."

The close ending of Saturday flew in the face of how the game looked to be progressing in the early goings, with Trinity getting to the rim at will against Cameron's defense, and the Dragons struggling to control the ball on offense.

Trinity broke out to an 8-0 lead before Hartley finally put Cameron on the board with 5:00 to go in the first quarter, but the Warrior offense was still scoring mostly unabated, collecting nearly half of their eventual point total in the first quarter alone.

'We had to get a couple timeouts, we had to settle our guys down and refocus a little bit," Hart said. "Trinity came out and shot the ball very well, they are very well-coached, they've got a nice ball team. We were just trying to get our guys to settle down a little bit, get the focus back on our game plan. We got a couple turnovers, got a couple big baskets, big 3's, got things back to single digits. After we got back to single digits, we kind of got back into our rhythm.'

Carter Hartsock scored six in the first quarter, while Lucas Kniska and Auston Porta each scored five for Trinity in the first.

While Cameron's Cuyler McCauley knocked down a 3-pointer at the buzzer, Cameron still trailed 23-10 heading into the second.

Things started changing fast for Saturday's championship game, starting with a whistle seconds into the period.

"We were in the driver's seat, clearly, in the first quarter and halfway through the second," Trinity head coach Codey Horton said. "Lucas

Kniska got a second foul five seconds into the second quarter, we sat him out and lost all of our mojo, only scored seven points in the second quarter, it was a tied ball game and things had shifted. A lot of selfishness, a lot of impatient ball movement and we just got backed into a corner and it felt like we were just trying to get out

As for Cameron, it was a shift in performance on defense, spurred by a fullcourt press they deployed through most of the second quarter, which helped them claw back into it.

"We just told them we need to pick it up on defense," Hart said. "We just seemed a little lax on defense, that's something we usually pride ourselves on. We picked the pace up on defense, started sitting down, playing better defense, limiting to one shot, we forced turnovers and got baskets out of it. That kind of got the momentum going.

The Dragons got within single digits, 24-14, and kept on going. A 10-0 run concluded the second quarter, as Mason Scott hit a corner three with 30 seconds left to send the teams into the locker rooms tied at 28. The Warriors shook off their shellshock in the third, and the two teams swapped leads throughout the quarter, with four lead changes. Cameron led by two, 39-37 going into the fourth- the same margin that the Dragons led by when Wichterman hit his game-altering 3 late. "It says a lot about our kids," Hart said of the game. "We had a tough game against a good Madonna team [in the semis], then we went the next day, less than 24 hours we were driving three hours to Charleston, played a very good Doddridge County team, went into overtime. Then we had two days to get prepared for Trinity, a very good ball team. These guys, they were focused. They were a little out-of-sorts at the beginning but they picked it up and we were successful today."

Wichterman finished with 16 points. Scott finished with 10 and five rebounds. For Trinity, Chayce Adams led the team with 14 while Hartsock scored 12 with rebounds. Hartley awarded game MVP.

You would think that's the goal for Wetherholt, who is switching from second base to shortstop this season, to now prove everyone is right about him.

In a roundabout way, it is, which would put Wetherholt in the school history books as just the third WVU athlete to ever be drafted No. 1 overall.

The other two: basketball's Mark Workman (1952) and "Hot" Rod Hundley in "The sky is the limit for that kid," WVU baseball coach Randy Mazey said. "He can accomplish a lot at this level, a lot at the next level and the level after

"His big deal this year, obviously, is to just play baseball. He's surrounded by so much hype. If he can iust take his mind back to when he was 12 years old and just go to the field and enjoy playing baseball and not worry about all the other stuff around him, then he'll continue to thrive."

sophomore, Wetherholt led the nation with a .449 batting average, while adding 16 home runs, 60 RBIs and 36 stolen bases.

How does one go up from there?

"The stats area could be hard to improve," Wetherholt admits. "There are other areas you can get better. For me, it's physically and mentally finding ways to get better. I'm trying to stay healthier and working on better mechanics, things like that.

"I did feel like I became a better player in the summer and fall. I'm definitely excited and looking forward to it." Wetherholt's bigger focus is the team aspect. WVU won a share of the Big 12 title last season, but a disappointing finish saw the Mountaineers go 1-7 in their final eight games.

the Big 12 tournament and

That included getting swept by Texas to end the then 1-2 in the NCAA regional.

What had been a massive build-up of success for the Mountaineers led to a gigantic thud at the end.

In terms of finding motivation, that's where it lies this season for Wetherholt.

Individual stats accolades are nice, sure, but Wetherholt wants the team's accomplishments to match.

"I think that's what hurt us last year is we were looking forward to much and we didn't see the Longhorns in front of us," Wetherholt said. "They swept us, and it took us down a bad path. That's the biggest thing is we have to stay consistent with our focus on the team we're about to play. We can't get to satisfied. We expected to win last season and we took it for granted."

The potential is there for these Mountaineers to be even better, but much has to go right. That includes a boost in offense from players like Ellis Garcia and Logan Sauve, who became starters as freshmen last season.

First baseman Grant Hussey, who is just 11 home runs shy of the school's career record, also needs to swing a mighty bat once again. A talented group of freshmen pitchers last sea-now that he's no longer an unknown. It will be the quite the opposite, as scouts will follow him throughout the season putting Wetherholt under a microscope. Wetherholt's mission is to somehow drown all of that out and just play baseball.

"Learning how to play in front of all those guys, it can be something," he said. "At the end of the day, you just have to play like they're not there. You just have to worry about winning games for your team."

Mountaineers fall on the road to No. 18 Baylor

Sports@DominionPost.com

WACO. Texas — The 22-ranked WVU women's basketball team fell on the road in a top 25 matchup against No. 18 Baylor, 65-58, on Saturday afternoon inside the Farrell Center in Waco.

The Mountaineers (20-3, 9-3 Big 12) were led by junior guard Kyah Watson who corralled a career-high 15 rebounds and 12 points. The effort marks the Rapid City, South Dakota native's fifth career double-dou-

Junior guard JJ Quinerly led the West Virginia scoring effort for the 15th time this season, finishing with 13 points after playing limited minutes due to early foul trouble. She added three steals and three assists. Sophomore guard Jordan Harrison also finished with 12 points and added four assists and four steals.

Quinerly and Harrison have now combined for 42 double-digit scoring performances this season.

West Virginia struggled to gather an offensive rhythm, shooting just 32.3% from the floor, including a 5-of-23 mark from beyond the arc. The Bears finished the game shooting 48.1% and made use of timely baskets all afternoon to halt the Mountaineers' comeback attempt.

WVU took the lead out of the gate, scoring four points over its opening possessions on attempts from Quinerly Watson. Baylor gained a lead until the 4:39 mark of the quarter when Harrison knocked down a step-back three to level the score at nine. Later tied at 11, Baylor closed out the frame on a 4-0 run to take a four-point lead.

West Virginia scored the first points of the second before a 9-0 Baylor run pushed the Bears lead out to 11 points at the sixminute mark. WVU and BU traded points to the 3:11 mark when a Kylee Blacksten and1 at the rim and a Lauren Fields corner 3 pulled the Mountaineers within seven. Baylor took a 34-26 lead into the locker room.

Mountaineers The trimmed their deficit down to five points out of break. Baylor responded by extending its lead to 14 points late in the quarter, before taking a 49-38 lead into the fourth. West Virginia continued to chip away in the fourth quarter, cutting its deficit down to seven points four times.

With just under a minute to play, Harrison scored to trim the deficit to just five points, but it was as close as WVU came to taking the lead.

The Bears (18-5, 7-5 Big 12) were led by Darianna Littlepage-Buggs Bella Fontleroy who each collected double-doubles. Buggs scored 14 points and Fontleroy added 12 as the pair both managed 10 boards.

West Virginia forced 19 Baylor turnovers in the game, marking just the second time this season the Mountaineers have failed to reach 20 in a game. With the result, West Virginia moves to 5-23 all-time against the Bears and 2-11 in games played in Waco.

Next up, West Virginia stays on the road for a 7:30 p.m. matchup with TCU in Fort Worth, Texas. The contest will be broadcast on Big12 Now on ESPN+ and the Mountaineer Sports Network, including 100.9 FM.

Interesting new data on gobbler survival

DAVE SAMUEL

Some new data just came out that turkey hunters will find interesting. The title of this research is "Survival and cause-specific mortality of male wild turkeys across the southeastern United

The study looked at captured and marked turkeys from eight sites in Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, and South Carolina from 2014 to 2022. Over 850 male turkeys were captured and marked

Three of the sites were on private land, the rest were on public land. One site was never hunted. Adult male gobblers were all two years old and older.

Some jakes were captured and marked, but only one percent were harvested. Now to the most interesting results.

If you passed on an adult gobbler last spring, will he be alive the next spring hunting season or will he have been killed by a hunter in the fall (if they have a fall season in the state you hunt), or will he have died of natural causes during the winter, or will he have been killed by a predator?

In the four states studied the annual survival rate for adult turkeys was 54%, just over half of adult gobblers survive to the next year. The annual adult gobbler harvest estimate was 29%.

The number of adults taken by predators was only 15%. I know that lots of turkey hunters want to shoot coyotes because they are killing adult gobblers, however, that didn't happen according to data on 850 male turkeys in four

The data did show that predators got 12% of the juvenile male turkeys, but even that number is quite

What about other hunters shooting the adult gobbler you passed? In the non-hunted area the survival rate for adult gobblers was 83%, compared to the survival rate of 54% for hunted birds. So hunting is a big factor in adult gobbler survival. In fact, survival rate was negatively correlated with harvest rate.

The idea that if hunters don't kill adult gobblers, something else will cause their death doesn't hold up. Hunting is additive mortality on top of all the other things that kill adult

The idea that different results might occur in one year in the four states studied doesn't hold up

There were no differences in annual survival across all the years that data were collected (2014-2022). There also was no differences in the different study sites, but slight differences on the three sites in North Carolina that were on private land.

On the three private land sites the annual harvest rates were 30%, 32% and 42%. Natural mortality on those private land sites was 24%, 29% and

Since the overall survival rate for all four states and all sites was 54%, the survival rates on private land were comparable (first site mortality was 30 plus 24; second site mortality was 32 plus 29; third site mortality was 42 plus 14.

Thus, mortality on site

one was 54%, site two was 61%, site three was 56%.

If you want to get more turkeys on your hunting areas, and if states want to increase annual survival of adult gobblers, based on the results from this study, you need to reduce the harvest rates.

That probably won't be popular with turkey hunters, but it works. Turkey numbers are down in many states (but apparently not much in West Virginia). In recent years fall hunting has been eliminated or reduced in Tennessee, Nebraska, Ohio, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Kansas, North Carolina, and Mississippi.

Some have lowered the spring bag limit to one gobbler. It will be interesting to see if any of these states show an improvement in turkey numbers over the next few years. Based on this study, lowering the gobbler harvest should lead to more turkeys.

Disu had 19 of Texas' 55 points at the break, the 55 points allowed being the most points scored against WVU in a first half this season.

Disu finished 10 of 16 from the floor and 7 of 10 from 3-point range.

One more Texas three came from Max Abmas from about 28 feet away.

Abmas finished with 19 points, nine assists and six rebounds and passed Oscar Robertson for 12th on the NCAA's all-time scoring list along the way.

Texas' dunk display was just plain impressive, too, most of them coming off poor WVII turnovers

Dillon Mitchell intercepted a pass from Kobe Johnson, got himself on a breakout and wind-milled one in.

Tyrese Hunter, who added 19 points, seven assists and five rebounds, stole another pass from Kerr Kriisa and took off from one step inside the foul line and dunked it.

Not to be outdone, Chendall Weaver used a backdoor cut, hauled in a bounce pass and got so high on his dunk that his face hit off the bottom of the backboard.

WVU did not respond. Instead, the Mountaineers turned the ball over 15 times, which led to points for Longhorns. WVU was also held to just 3 of 13 (23.1%) from behind the arc and tied a season-low with just six assists.

"That's 29 points off turnovers and six assists to 15 turnovers," Eilert said. 'They had 28 assists to just five turnovers. Wow. That's the game right there."

Texas' 28 assists were the most against the Mountaineers since Kansas racked up 29 in 2013.

Eilert finally waved the white flag with 5:21 remaining and played reserves the rest of the way, including Aden Tagaloa-Nelson, a safety from the football team who made his first basketball appearance.

WVU was center Jesse Edwards, who finished with 17 points and nine rebounds. Noah Farrakhan came off the bench to add 11 points and eight rebounds.

The lone bright spot for

It was the last time WVU ill visit the Moody Center with the Longhorns leaving for the SEC next season. Good thing. WVU's trip to the arena last season resulted in a 34-point loss.

"I really felt like it was déjà vu here looking at this box score and thinking about last year in this arena," Eilert said. "Credit to them, they played a great game."

They'll need to do it for one more game against a versatile, dynamic offense,

The 49ers (14-5) also have a formidable defense led by Nick Bosa, All-Pro Fred Warner, Javon Hargrave and Charvarius Ward. They've struggled in the postseason, especially making third-down stops.

They have to be better against Mahomes and the Chiefs to have a shot to win.

Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Patrick Mahomes (15) stretches during practice for Super Bowl 58 Thursday, in Henderson, Nev.

McCaffrey, tight end Kittle, left tackle Trent Williams and fullback Kyle Juszczyk were All-Pros. Brandon Aiyuk was a second-team All-Pro. Samuel is a versatile, do-everything player.

The 49ers have plenty of weapons, and coach Kyle Shanahan is known for finding innovative ways to use them and keep defenses off balance. He's facing a master tactician in Spagnuolo.

It'll be a chess match. Spagnuolo has a penchant for blitzing. Purdy excelled against it.

The 49ers have to block Jones, who can be a gamewrecker. McDuffie is a shutdown slot cornerback and Sneed allowed only one receiver all season to have more than 50 yards receiving in a game so Purdy has a tough task.

He led the NFL with a 113.0 passer rating on 4,280 vards, 31 TDs, 11 picks and a 69.4% completion rate. McCaffrey led the NFL with 1,459 yards rushing and had 14 rushing TDs for San Francisco. He also had 564 yards receiving for seven scores.

Kittle had 65 catches for 1,020 yards and six TDs.

The Chiefs shut down two-time MVP Lamar Jackson, the best running QB in the NFL, so they'll be ready for Purdy.

WHEN THE CHIEFS HAVE THE BALL

The Chiefs had the league's sixth-ranked passbehind offense Mahomes and 19th-ranked rushing attack. The 49ers were 14th against the pass and third against the run, but they have allowed 13 of 25 third-down conversions in the playoffs.

Mahomes is a brilliant playmaker who finds unique ways to make big plays when it seems nothing is available. The twotime NFL and Super Bowl MVP threw for 4,183 yards with 27 touchdowns, a career-high 14 interceptions and career-low 92.6 passer rating. His receivers dropped 44 passes, the most in the league.

The Chiefs' offense runs through Mahomes and Kelce. Without a deep threat — Tyreek Hill was traded to Miami two years ago — Reid has turned the passing offense into a shorter, carve-up attack.

Rashee Rice has the ability to turn screens into big plays and veteran Marquez Valdes-Scantling has averaged 21.6 yards per catch in the playoffs.

Kelce had 93 catches for 984 yards and five TDs in the regular season and he has taken his game to another level in the playoffs, with 23 catches for 262 yards and three scores in three games. Rice had 79 receptions for 938 yards and seven TDs in the regular season.

The Chiefs have to use running back Isiah Pacheco to balance the offense. He ran for 935 vards and seven TDs in the regular season, and he has 254 yards and three scores in the playoffs.

Reid is one of the NFL's most creative coaches, and he's willing to add new wrinkles in the biggest games. Kansas City again won't have All-Pro left guard Joe Thuney and the offensive line has a big protecting challenge Mahomes from Bosa, Hargrave and the rest of San Francisco's pass rush.

Warner and Dre Greenlaw can control of the middle of the field and limit some of Kelce's opportunities, forcing the Chiefs to attack outside.

Mahomes can always make plays with his legs. He scrambled for 26 first downs in the regular season. Playing on an injured ankle in last year's Super Bowl, he had a big scramble on Kansas City's go-ahead drive in a comeback win over Philadelphia.

Nick Taylor takes 1-shot lead into Sunday at raucous Phoenix Open

Associated Press

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — The party at TPC Scottsdale was a rager Saturday, with so many boozesoaked shenanigans that the Phoenix Open had to close the gates mid-afternoon and limit alcohol sales because the course was too crowded.

And yes — there was also some golf played.

Nick Taylor had a oneshot lead at 13 under with 12 holes left in his third round when play was suspended Saturday because of darkness at the waterlogged tournament.

"It was pretty epic," said a grinning Sahith Theegala, who was a stroke back. "There were a bunch of guys with my name and face on their shirts. An officer was telling me people got too drunk, but it was all in good fun. Hopefully everyone stayed safe.

"It's a blast, even if some people aren't the best drunks."

Taylor continued to ride his fast start after matching the course record with an 11-under 60 to finish his first round Friday. The Canadian completed just six holes Saturday, with one birdie and five pars. Theegala used five birdies on the back nine of the second round early Saturday to shoot a 64 and take a one-shot lead into the third. He bogeyed his first two holes of the third, but made a birdie on No. 4 to pull within a stroke.

The 35-year-old Taylor is going for his fourth PGA Tour victory. The former University of Washington star lives in the area. He won the Canadian Open last year in a playoff, which was also a raucous atmosphere, though nothing's quite like TPC Scottsdale.

"Tried to stay warm, get loose," Taylor said. "It was a pretty good six holes, even if it was cold and windy."

Ghim Doug Andrew Novak were 11 under, with Jordan Spieth and Cameron Young at 10 under.

Scottie Scheffler — eyeing his third straight Phoenix Open win — was five shots back at 8 under. He's trying for the first three-peat on the PGA Tour in 13 years.

It's been a soggy tournament so far in the desert. though weather was drier by Saturday afternoon. A long weather delay Thursday left half the field needing to finish their first rounds on Friday and a 90-minute frost delay Friday pushed tee times back even more.

That moved much of the second round into Saturday and there was another delay — this one for just 21 minutes — in the morning because of unplayable conditions.

The leaders teed off for the third round at 4:10 p.m., giving them about two hours on the course before play was suspended.

Today's forecast is dry and slightly warmer, though there could be another frost delay.

Much of Saturday's biggest news happened outside the ropes. The famously no-holds-barred tournament had to turn away some ticket holders and limited alcohol sales because the became too crowded.

Black history is American history

Even before concerted efforts to stifle education and conversations around slavery and racism, we were often presented with a limited picture of Black history: The long, vast, varied history of people classified as the singular monolith of their skin color — distilled and oversimplified into a handful of names. dates and places to be trotted out every February like clockwork.

There is so much more to Black history than we have been taught. There is so much more to the history that we have been taught.

We learn about Harriet Tubman, Ruby Bridges, Rosa Parks and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

We know Tubman for her work with the Underground Railroad, but not that she lived a long, full life after the Civil War, including joining the women's suffrage movement and founding a nursing home.

We know Bridges for being the first Black child to integrate Louisiana schools; but we forget she is alive and well and still a prolific civil rights activist.

We know Rosa Parks for being the face of the Montgomery bus boycotts.

But long before there was Rosa Parks, there was the Women's Political Council, which had been fighting to desegregate transportation for years and had organized the first bus boycott. That 15-year-old Claudette Colvin and 18-year-old Mary Louise Smith were each arrested (separately) for challenging segregation on Montgomery's buses. Or that it was the WPC that called for the boycott after Parks' arrest and that MLK Jr. joined later. Or that the Montgomery bus boycotts lasted over a year. That it was the hundreds of Black women who organized and walked miles upon miles in lieu of using public transportation that made it a success. Or that it was nearly 10 years between this watershed moment and the 1965 Civil Rights Act.

We know MLK Jr. for being the face of the civil rights movement, and especially for his "I Have a Dream" speech on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial. But we don't learn about Bayard Rustin: King's right-hand man who turned King into a pacificist and organized the March on Washington — and who was an openly gay Black man in a time when it was dangerous to be either, let alone both.

We don't learn about the successful Black Wall Street and its subsequent destruction in the 1921 Tulsa massacre: A thriving, prosperous Black neighborhood called Greenwood that was burnt to the ground overnight, destroying homes, businesses, churches and generations' worth of wealth.

Our U.S. History classes rarely reach Reconstruction, and if they do, they forget to tell us how Black people (though mostly men) became literate land owners with the power to vote and became politicians who served in state legislatures. Until President Andrew Johnson revoked freed slaves' land, giving it back to its white owners, and allowed states to enact a litany of suppressive laws.

Black history should not be confined to a few famous faces and relegated to one month a year. It must be interwoven into our history lessons, because it is an intrinsic part of our history. Black history is American history, and we must we treat it as such.

Lawmakers can do more to protect women

I fail to understand how our Legislature continues to get it so wrong!

The women of West Virginia should be protected from sexual assault in their marriages, not have sane nurses removed from our hospitals.

We need you to help us feed our families, not quibble about how many hours a mom needs to work to get SNAP.

weapons out of our schools, not add more guns to the We need comprehensive

We need you to keep costs and fewer Medicaid benefits. We need to be adults when we sign a marriage contract, health care, not greater PEIA with no exceptions. The girls of West Virginia deserve comprehensive and fact-based sexual education, not "Meet Baby Olivia" propaganda videos.

Our girls need to attend fully funded state universities with a variety of majors and enough professors to teach them, not for some of you to fly around on a private jet with Gordon Gee.

All women deserve to rock our natural hair in all of its glory. Pass the CROWN Act.

We deserve you to honor the service of our national guardsmen, not ask them to serve active duty in our prisons because you refuse to adequately compensate prison guards.

If you want girls to feel safe and cared for in their school bathrooms, fill them with tampons and, while you're at it, maybe Plan B?

If you want to honor the quality of their education, pay their teachers a competitive wage and stop handing our tax dollars over to private schools.

We deserve the right to an abortion, but the least you can do is live up to your promise to fund free birth control at every county health clinic.

The trans girls of West Virginia deserve to be loved, cherished and supported, just like those who were born with ova, not othered, vilified and denied the validity of their existence.

The biggest barrier to the safety and wellbeing of West Virginia women is not the girls without "ova" who may be using their bathrooms, it's the men "capable of producing sperm" in the Legislature.

American pessimism is on the rise. What can we do about it?

"AMERICANS ARE FAR TOO PES-SIMISTIC ABOUT THE FUTURE," Fareed declared CNN's Zakaria in an op-ed published last month.

Zakaria focused on economics, arguing that a "profound sense of despair" among many Americans ("around three-quarters of those polled") does not match up with positive stats — 5.2% growth in the third quarter of last year, dropping inflation, increasing wages and a robust tech sector. Objective data aside, recent polling shows that Americans are worried about much more than the economy. They're concerned about climate change, democracy, education, racial inequality and international relations. Views vary according to political affiliation, age, race and ethnicity but one thing is clear: Americans are trending toward pessimism over optimism.

What's going on?

It's probably not much of a surprise. Where to begin? Political polarization, predictions of climate catastrophe, mass shootings, social media algorithms designed to spark outrage, a largely negative news cycle, the wars in Ukraine and Israel, and oh yes, the long-term social and health consequences of a global pandemic that we are only beginning to understand.

It all feels like a giant wrecking ball (with "pessimism" written across it) and I'm sorry to drop it on you. But we can also look at it as a call to action. Here are some areas to examine for possible remedies:

The media

Traditional news media is notorious for cranking out a steady flow of doom. "The journalist's theory of change is that the best way to avert catastrophe is to keep people focused on the potential for catastrophe 24/7," writes Amanda Ripley in a wonderful op-ed published last year titled "I stopped reading the news. Is the problem me — or the product?'

Many people are experiencing "headline stress disorder," a real thing, she claims. Upwards of 42% of Americans are simply tuning out the news.

IT ALL FEELS LIKE A GIANT WRECKING BALL (WITH "PESSIMISM" WRITTEN ACROSS IT) AND I'M SORRY TO DROP IT ON YOU. BUT WE CAN ALSO LOOK AT IT AS A CALL TO ACTION.

Ripley believes we need a new brand of "solutions-based journalism" as a counter to the media's business model of negative clicks. It would involve a good dose of hope, empathy for people on the other side of the political divide and a sense of agency.

Media companies should think more about creating news with these more human qualities in mind, she argues. 'Feeling like you and your fellow humans can do something – even something small — is how we convert anger into action, frustration into invention. That self-efficacy is essential to any functioning democracy.'

We also have to be more aware of social media's ill effects. This is beginning to happen. In the last few years, researchers have raised red flags about the algorithmic structure of social media platforms. We now have better knowledge of how algorithms are designed — to feed us more negativity, which we as humans are biased towards. Being aware of how social media works and taps into our cognitive biases could help us better resist becoming a "doomer."

Social isolation

Is it possible that our growing pessimism has some connection to loneliness? After the worst of the coronavirus pandemic - with its lockdowns and social distancing requirements — Americans have struggled to come out of it. A Newsweek poll from a year ago showed that 42% of Americans felt less sociable than they did in 2019.

For many of us, the pandemic severed a sense of connection we had to others. Whether we wanted to or not, it felt like we turned the page on a past (and more sociable) life. But we shouldn't blame all our social problems on the pandemic. New York Times columnist David Brooks notes that we've been lonelier (and meaner) for some time, predating the pandemic. "The percentage of people who say they don't have close friends has increased fourfold since 1990," he writes.

We can debate the reasons political tribalism, economic insecurity, the decline of community life (civic organizations and places of worship) and the breakup of traditional marriage.

And yet it is hard not to place technology at the center. Smartphones have taken over many aspects of social life. Just walk into any bar or cafe and note how many people are glued to their devices instead of each other. If we are indeed social animals, it's logical that genuine social interaction

Investing in our health

BY TARA HULSEY

I HAVE ALWAYS SAID NURSING IS NOT JUST A CAREER - IT'S A CALLING.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the nursing workforce shortage was put in the national spotlight. But even now, the demand for nurses continues to grow and is projected to expand well into the next decade.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports the projected growth for nurses is double the national average for all occupations between now and 2032. There are more than 193,000 projected openings each year for registered nurses over the course of the next eight years.

The West Virginia University School of Nursing is well-equipped to educate and train future nurses to meet these needs with nursing programs located throughout the state (Beckley, Bridgeport, Charleston, Keyser and our flagship in Morgantown) and online offerings.

The demand for registered nurses is evident, but the demand for baccalaureate-prepared nurses is even greater. In a 2011 report, "The Future of Nursing," The Institute of Medicine called for increasing the number of baccalaureate-prepared nurses in the workforce to at least 80% to enhance patient safety. A 2020 National Nursing Workforce Survey showed that the nursing workforce is falling short of this recommendation, with just over 65% of registered nurses having a bachelor's degree or greater. Multiple studies have shown that nurses who are baccalaureate-prepared deliver better patient outcomes.

For Abby Warnick, of Kingwood, her nursing journey took an unexpected turn that left her uniquely prepared for a career in caring for others. Abby was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin lymphoma just a few months before graduation. Her professors worked closely with her, not only to check on her health and well-being, but to also ensure she could finish her final semester on time. After her own journey with cancer, Abby now plans to with oncology work patients. She plans to use her personal experience to make a difference in the lives of others.

Supporting WVU nursing programs is also an excellent way to build a more prosperous future for state residents. For example, a career in nursing with a median pay of more than $80,000 is well above the median household income in West Virginia of $55,000.

We are incredibly grateful that Gov. Jim Justice has recognized this smart investment by providing funding for the Nursing Workforce Expansion Program over the last two years, which has allowed us to increase our enrollment, provide scholarships to students with financial need, and support our expert faculty in continuing education and professional development. We are hopeful for the support of Gov. Justice's proposed $30 million addition to this program.

We are excited to build on the strength and quality of the WVU School of Nursing programs reflected in our first-time NCLEX licensure pass rates. The most recent results from our fall 2023 graduates yielded a

Forget big projects focus on everyday roads

Seems that the only road priorities we hear about from the West Virginia Division of Highways and our elected officials are the Harmony Grove interchange, the new bridge to the Morgantown Industrial Park and the new Star City/Exit 155 interchange.

While these may be worthwhile projects, I care more about the roads that I and many Monongalia County residents drive on a daily basis — Brockway Avenue, Holland Avenue in Westover and Main Street in Granville. They are third-world condition roadways.

More of a concern is the issue of roadway safety. Just how many accidents have to occur before the DOH gets around to placing a traffic light in front of Panda Express at the University Town Centre?

From just north of the Uffington Bridge on Interstate 79, south through Marion County and into Harrison County, there are guardrails or cable guardrails in the median in order to prevent vehicles from crossing through the median into oncoming traffic. From mile marker 149 to the Pennsylvania border, there are no guardrails in the median.

On Jan. 3, near mile marker 150, two Monongalia County residents, Zaquan (age 21) and Margaret (age 19), died in a vehiclecrossing-the-median accident. Two others were hospitalized. So where is the outrage? How many cross-median accidents will occur before the DOH installs cable guardrails in the median up to the Pennsylvania border? Note that the interstate between the Star City exit (155) and the Westover exit (152) is heavily traveled by local residents.

We have allowed the Justice

Administration to ignore roadway safety issues in Monongalia County. So the next time you see one of our elected officials, ask them about the guardrail issue.

Home solar power is a form of cybersecurity

On Jan. 31, the FBI director briefed congress on the threats that Chinese hackers pose to the infrastructure of the United States. Those threats include cyberattacks on utility systems such as water, gas and oil pipelines and the electrical grid. He outlined a scenario in which if we were to engage in a war with China, or if we tried to interfere with a Communist Chinese takeover of Taiwan, then the Chinese would execute these cyberattacks; a scary scenario for U.S. citizens.

How fortunate for us that our state lawmakers are in session right now and can work on laws to prepare the state in the event this scenario becomes a reality. As a retired military engineer, I've spent much of my career anticipating attacks on infrastructure and how to minimize those effects, and one of the best ways is to decentralize them. This means that instead of having one critical piece of equipment or one primary site, equipment is distributed across the

In the case of electrical systems, we have the ability to decentralize power production by having, in addition to power stations, home production units in the form of home solar.

However, we cannot wait until this cyberattack scenario becomes a reality to develop a decentralized capability, and our state lawmakers do not need to spend millions of dollars to do it. All they need to do is create a fiscal environment that encourages individuals to install home solar systems themselves — or to not implement barriers for individuals to own them, such as the changes under consideration to the net-metering rules.

Under proposed new netmetering rules, individual homeowners will be discouraged from purchasing home solar systems.

This is due to these rules greatly increasing the time it takes for homeowners to recuperate their initial costs.

It then follows that by implementing these new rules, we, the people, will be more vulnerable in the case of a cyberattack.

Abortion isn't only option for rape victims

I couldn't believe it: "Post-Roe America's national shame: 65,000 forced pregnancies" (DP-02-01-24). Stated another way, it is our national shame that 65,000 lives were not destroyed.

Shame? Whether that estimated number is even close can be debated, but that isn't the issue. Whatever the number, babies conceived by rape are still babies. Will any of them grow up to develop a cure for cancer or any of the other dread diseases ... or perhaps become a teacher, first responder, pastor or maybe a respected community/state/national leader?

Our real shame is the roughly 1 million babies a year we have exterminated since Roe. Without question, victims of rape need our care — physically, emotionally and spiritually. Without question we need to do better.

It is not a shame to care for the victim and her baby to term and beyond. Adoption is an alternative that is too often ignored. One estimate says over 1 million couples nationwide are waiting to adopt.

It is a shame when we offer abortion as the only hope for a victim of rape. We can and should do better.

would give optimism a boost. The good news is that a growing number of Americans are aware of these concerns. Some schools have moved to ban smartphones. Psychologist and author Jonathan Haidt believes the case for more schools following suit is stronger than ever. And just recently, Florida legislators have put forth a bill that would prohibit children under 16 from using social media, regardless of parental consent. Whether you agree or not, at least we're talking about it.

National ideals

"The American, by nature, is optimistic. He is experimental, an inventor and a builder who builds best when called upon to build greatly," former President John F. Kennedy once said. Unbridled optimism — it is (or was?) a cliche of American life. Is it time to redefine our

We can choose to see our rising pessimism as merely a mood that will pass. As Zakaria suggests, there is ample data to help us see objectively. The statistics tell us that overall we're living in a pretty good time with a high degree of wealth, security and good health.

Or we can choose to rework our idea of pessimism itself. Is it absolute or conditional? Can we do a half-and-half or uneven mixture — optimism with a pinch of pessimism or vice versa?

But zero optimism? Nah, that just isn't in our DNA.

BY HOLLIS LEWIS

THERE ARE BIPARTISAN EFFORTS TO INCREASE WEST VIRGINIA'S ECO-NOMIC DEVELOPMENT. These efforts were reflected by our politicians, educators and business leaders successfully persuading LG, an international corporation, to bring its operations to West Virginia. While investing in our infrastructure, access to the internet or downtown areas — as is the case of Charleston and Wheeling — is necessary, our most significant investment must be our citizens. With that, we must develop better methodologies in how we handle West Virginia's preeminent issues, which are behavioral health and substance use disorders (SUD).

So, what is CIT, and how will it add to improving West Virginia's economic viability? CIT stands for Crisis Intervention Teams. CIT programs strive to strengthen our collective response and provide the foundation to promote community and statewide solutions to assist individuals in crisis. Collaborations are formed between mental health professionals, law enforcement, persons with lived experience, first responders and mobile crisis response teams to build a continuum of services. Personnel from these agencies complete a 40-hour training in which participants learn how to identify, work more compassionately with and provide services to those in crisis. CIT increases the chance of an appropriate health care referral while diverting some from the criminal justice system.

CIT was developed in Memphis, Tenn., during the late 1980s, following an incident in which an officer-involved shooting resulted in the death of a man who had a history of mental illness. To quell rising tensions over the shooting, the mayor of Memphis turned to local advocates from the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) and enlisted police, mental health professionals, educators, hospital administrators and church officials to seek a new approach to working with persons with mental illness in crisis. From these efforts in Memphis, CIT was formed.

Implementing CIT is vital to West Virginia, considering our state is at the heart of a variety of crises simultaneously. According to reports, West Virginia ranks highest for drug use and overdose deaths nationally and in the top 10 states suffering from mental illness.

Regarding criminal justice, West Virginia outpaces the national average in the percentage of the population incarcerated. Many of our currently or recently incarcerated population have an underlying issue of SUD. In addition, West Virginia is ranked 10th in the nation for its suicide rate and has a poverty rate of 15.80%, ranking as the fourth-poorest state in America. While CIT alone cannot solve the myriad problems West Virginia faces, it can support those tasked with frequently assisting those in crisis, namely law enforcement. CIT is not designed to absolve suspects of criminal liability but attempts to differentiate between emergency and non-emergency calls. CIT trained officers are better prepared to mitigate and refer these issues to behavioral health professionals when possible. In addition, CIT allows officers to focus on emergency and criminal incidents while providing them with improved methods of safely deescalating and preventing hazardous crises.

CIT raises awareness and promotes partnerships amongst community members to form a continuum of services, which could lead to sustainable changes. Studies indicate that if persons suffering from SUD can be referred to treatment within their initial contact with law enforcement, their chances for a successful recovery are improved. Similarly, CIT provides first responders and police with timely assistance from mental health professionals. The trauma people experience during a crisis may be reduced, and solution-driven approach will be employed.

First Choice Services, West Virginia CIT Collaborative, will assist in coordinating the CIT continuum by forming a cohesive working relationship among agencies while streamlining services and information. CIT promotes community safety and affords behavioral health professionals and peer support specialists a direct role in non-emergency incidents. An investment in CIT across the state is an investment in the quality of our communities, cities, law enforcement and, most importantly, our citizens.

Should you sleep with your pet?

DO YOU SLEEP WITH ANIMALS?

No, I don't mean people who, you know, do wild and crazy things in bed.

I am talking about actual animals: dogs, cats, bunnies, guinea pigs and maybe — bear with me-Vietnamese pot-bellied pigs.

Every few years, new research reveals human-animal co-sleeping is either a) medically fraught; b) emotionally fulfilling; or c) a confirmation of your mother's fears that she will never have grandchildren, because what man in his right mind is going to share a bed with you and your Bernedoodle?

As someone who has always had boundary issues with my pets, it never occurred to me not to allow them into my bed. My Poppy is a nearly 3-year-old golden retriever, and when I tell you that I sleep with her, what I really mean is that she deigns to sleep with me.

Most nights she starts out on the hardwood floor and ends up at the foot of my bed. Sometimes, in the morning, I flip around so my head is at the foot of the bed and try to spoon with her. At 80 pounds, she is a solid and satisfying creature to wrap my arms around. She only tolerates this contact as long as I rub her belly. Otherwise, like my ex-husband, she's not super cuddly.

I do, however, sleep better knowing that Poppy is nearby. If an intruder were ever to break in at night, Poppy's enthusiastic greeting and her habit of flopping onto her back to demand a belly rub might trip him and buy me a few minutes to call 911.

It's surprising how much time has been spent studying what happens when humans sleep with pets. Two primary areas draw the interest of researchers: the medical risks involved in bringing a four-legged creature into bed, and the effect that the practice has on our sleep.

Medical downsides can be considerable, if rare.

Pets can bring dust and pollen into bed, which may aggravate allergies and asthma. In 2011, the CDC published a disturbing paper, "Zoonoses in the Bedroom," by two California doctors who surveyed medical literature. (Zoonoses are diseases that animals spread to people.)

What I learned from reading this disturbing paper is that it's probably better not to let your pets lick your mouth or any tear in your skin. But mostly, at least in the U.S., sleeping with pets won't make you sick as long as your pet is healthy, clean and properly treated for fleas and ticks.

As far as I can tell, no one has studied whether it's dangerous for the pets to sleep with humans. But I can tell you from experience that things did not turn out well for the small guinea pig my little sister brought into her bed and rolled onto in her sleep when we were kids.

As for the impact on sleep quality, there is almost too much research to take in, and much of it is contradictory.

In the 2011 paper "Human-Animal Co-Sleeping: An Actigraphy-Based Assessment of Dogs' Impacts on Women's Nighttime Movements," researchers found that when dogs move around in bed, they cause people to move around in bed, but that people "rarely" reported that their dogs disrupted their sleep.

In 2021, researchers at the Pediatric Public Health Psychology Lab at Montreal's Concordia University found that about a third of pet-owning children sleep with their pets, and that the children's sleep does not seem to be adversely impacted.

A variation on that theme was explored the same year in Australia, where researchers looked at the sleep quality of adolescents who slumber with their pets and discovered that pets didn't have much of an effect because adolescents generally don't sleep well in the first place.

Last year, the scientific clearinghouse that publishes the journal Human-Animal Interactions released the results of an American study examining whether there was a correlation between pet ownership, sleep quality and sleep disorders. Multivariable logistic regression models — ahem — looked at sleep-quality issues including snoring, snorting, trouble falling or staying asleep, waking up midsleep or too early, feeling unrested, and leg jerks and cramps, among other things.

"Our results," wrote researchers, "indicated that having a dog was associated with greater odds of having a sleep disorder and having trouble sleeping. Having a cat was associated with greater odds of having leg jerks."

A few years ago, when I still owned two cats, I do not recall my legs jerking during sleep. I do recall, however, that Camille frequently stood on my chest staring at me like a hungry vulture as I slept, and Patches often curled up on my pillow and licked my hair.

Some professionals advise just keeping pets out of the bedroom at night altogether. Are they serious? Just try locking your codependent pet out for the night. See how well you sleep with a furry bundle howling in the hallway or hurling itself at your door.

I WASN'T ALWAYS THIS CYNICAL.

There was a time when I believed in things like soul mates and meet cutes, grand gestures and matches made in

In truth, I was a bit of a hopeless romantic.

Now, I mostly think romance is pretty hopeless.

Being jaded when it comes to courtship isn't exactly a hot take. Experience and years have a way of making the most sanguine dater skeptical.

The obtrusiveness of Valentine's Day — looming large on Wednesday — doesn't exactly cheer us, either.

But luckily, regardless of how far afield you are on the romance-is-real continuum, there is an antidote. A holiday gift that will soften that old, ossified heart. I give you: "Love on the Spectrum." Actually, it's Netflix offering up this present — season 2of the U.S. version dropped in late January, and I've been saving it for just this occasion. For the folks out there who are unfamiliar, the docuseries features people on the autism spectrum who are looking for a life partner.

It began with two seasons filmed in Australia and moved to the States in 2022.

Season 2 U.S. brings back some of the cast from its first, including Dani, 28; James, 35; Steve, 64; and the adorable Abbey, 24.

New faces include Connor, 24: Journey, 18: and Tanner, 24.

As in past episodes, we follow our friends during their days at home and, later, on several blind dates.

We find out what they're looking for — Connor wants someone he can talk about the Greeks and Vikings with; Dani wants someone with a fully organized animation portfolio who is properly groomed.

Abbey is still with David from season 1 and "feels like a princess" having him by her

"I'm the boy with autism who is in love with a girl who has autism," David explains when asked by director Cian O'Clery how the relationship is going.

They are genuine, they are open. They don't hide what they want or waffle on what they need.

There is no guile. There is no back-stabbing.

No one sends inappropriate pictures or hits the "like" button on a text then goes silent for days.

They don't fill awkward silences with insults about other people or try to act too cool for school.

Instead, they get palpably and unabashedly excited when they meet someone who shares their interests.

As David says when describing his beloved, this show is "sweeter than all my favorite desserts."

There has simply never been a single program on television that I find as touching as this one.

It's the Cindy Lou Who to my happily-ever-after Grinch.

Their hope is infectious. Their honesty, refreshing. And because they do, I do, too

I believe in love. At least, while I'm watching it.

"Puppy Bowl" airs Sunday, Feb. 11 at 2 p.m. ET/11 a.m. PT and will be simulcast across Animal Planet, Discovery, TBS, truTV, Max and discovery+. The show repeats throughout the day.

BY MARK KENNEDY Associated Press

NEW YORK — The annual "Puppy Bowl" turns 20 this year, well over middle age in dog years. But does the sheer cuteness of it really ever get old?

"Who doesn't want to watch dogs play all day long?" asks Laurie Johnson, the director of Florida Little Dog Rescue in St. Cloud, Florida, who has been part of "Puppy Bowl" for a decade.

There are some changes this year to the canine football telecast: Four previous puppy players return to be inducted in the new Puppy Bowl Hall of Fame and the show, which has grown to include armadillos, hedgehogs and chickens, will focus on dogs.

"What we've done this year to flip the whole script is because it's sort of a celebration of the fact that it's the 20th year," says "Puppy Bowl" referee Dan Schachner. "We've decided to go all in on puppy, making it the "most puppiest 'Puppy Bowl'

The "Puppy Bowl" made its debut as counter-programming to the Super Bowl in 2005. Dogs score touchdowns on a gridiron carpet when they cross the goal line — any goal line — with a

The show is really just an excuse to spend time watching adorable, clumsy pups in colorful sweaters play with chew toys, wag their tails furiously and lick the camera. A deeper reason is to encourage animal adoption.

"We always say the same message every year: Adopt, don't shop," says Schachner. "There are responsible breeders out there, but it kind of defies logic that somebody who's searching for a dog would look beyond their local shelter or rescue."

According to the ASPCA, approximately 390,000 shelter dogs are euthanized each year and 2 million shelter dogs are adopted. Schachner says the number of animals languishing in shelters is back up after falling during the pandemic. "It's worse than ever," he says.

Florida Little Dog Rescue, which like all puppy groups is vetted by Animal Planet, sent seven pup players and two Hall of Fame inductees this year. Johnson, who volunteers her time, says it's an honor that Animal Planet picks her pups year after year.

"It does bring attention to our rescue, which helps some of our other dogs get adopted. But, honestly, for us, the biggest excitement is that we're helping dogs all over the country get into homes, because rescue is not a competition, it's a cooperation," says

Most of the puppies are usually adopted by airtime, since the show is filmed in the fall. But the point is to show that animals just like the ones on the show can be found at any shelter at any time. Schachner also has some advice for anyone who falls for a particular pup on the broadcast: "That animal is probably likely part of a litter, right? So there's probably siblings out there that are still up for adoption or their parents — their mom, their dad is in the shelter looking for a forever home."

Florida Little Dog Rescue was the first to send a Shar Pei to the "Puppy Bowl" — the pup, Wrinkles, was quickly adopted by a crew member at the taping — and Johnson says many viewers might not know that all kinds of breeds — Corgis, Westies, Doodles and Cavapoos, included are available at shelters and rescue groups.

The inaugural "Puppy Bowl" was watched by nearly 6 million viewers. Last year, 13.2 million viewers tuned in, the largest reach for the event in five years. In comparison, The Emmy Awards telecast on Fox this year reached just 4.3 million viewers. This year's show will be simulcast across Animal Planet, Discovery, TBS, truTV, Max and Discovery.

The dogs are split into two teams — Team Fluff and Team Ruff — and each dog is given a nickname — like "Slick Rick" or "J-Paw" — and a specialty, like "Epic end zone dance."

They are free to frolic, but may face penalties for things like "unsportlike dog conduct" and "trash barking." Awards are given to Most Valuable Puppy and, new this year, an Underdog Award for the more introverted

This year's broadcast is built on the work of dozens of volunteers, as well as 600 pee pads, 200 poop bags, 10 bags of treats, 30 water bowls and 18 cameras. The cat halftime show will also return.

Moving forward as we coast into aging

THE YEARS ARE ROLLING ALONG. We've either retired or are close to retirement. Along with that wonderful feeling of freedom when we know our days are no lounger tightly scheduled, sometimes other emotions can sneak in and take root. Do we miss the camaraderie of our colleagues, friends we've made at work? Have we lost some of our identity if we've completely defined ourselves by our jobs? How about living without a paycheck? According to the most recent surveys, these are the main concerns of newly retired people or those close to retirement. It stands to reason after that initial "honeymoon" period when we first retire, there may be times we miss the people with whom we've worked for

years. Many of us identify ourselves with our job to some extent. This is normal and carries no damaging effects unless we are so tightly bound up with our job that we forget we are more ... much more ... than the work we do. As for the financial situation. this is something we should consider and work on before retirement hits. Planning well ahead of retirement can mitigate those financial fears. If we have invested wisely, saved wisely, perhaps even downsized, the money side of retirement should not be much of a worry.

So, now we are retired; we've tasted freedom from the alarm clock and a slew of commitments. We have perhaps kept in touch with those work friends we truly care about and we're feeling good about ourselves and the bright, welcoming road that stretches before us like an unfurled ribbon. This is the time to make some plans, before lethargy sets in and we allow our daily attire to consist of pajamas, robe and slippers as we wander around the house or sit in front of the TV, bingewatching our favorite shows.

Probably for most of us lethargy may not be a problem. In fact, our reality could be quite the opposite. We may decide to chop our free time into blocks of volunteer work of one kind or another. We may even feel guilty having such an extravagant amount of free time and, as a result, invest great chunks of it in our extended family or volunteer work, in order to salve our conscience. It's much easier to say "yes" rather than "no" to those who are convinced they need our services because, after all. we have so much free time on our hands. Before we realize what's happening, we may find ourselves with less free personal time than we had before retirement. Planning is the key: Some volunteer work if that's our pleasure, some large personal goals (like a cruise or traveling across the country or perhaps downsizing our home) along with some smaller goals (like learning an instrument or a language or improving our golf game).

As we get older we mustn't buy into the negative stereotypes of aging. Aging myths abound with misleading information, such as older adults can't learn new things; depression, as well as loneliness are a normal part of aging; dementia is inevitable. None of these are based on research. They are inaccurate and should not stop us from as active a life style as we can manage. It's difficult to shine a positive light on aging when a multitude of TV ads urge us to look young, feel young or push medications to diminish the effects of aging. Yet we should persevere to see aging in a much more positive light; to stay active, eat a healthy diet and, above all, encourage an attitude of grateful appreciation for the blessing of being alive.

SO, NOW WE ARE RETIRED: WE'VE TASTED FREEDOM FROM THE ALARM CLOCK AND A SLEW OF COMMITMENTS. THIS IS THE TIME TO MAKE SOME PLANS, BEFORE LETHARGY SETS IN ...

13 years ago, when there were 59 dogs invited. "I'll never forget that because I thought that was a tremendous amount of dogs to be trying to officiate in one place."

That number has by now more than doubled, with this year's broadcast featuring 131 puppies. "The scope and the size of this show from the time I started 13 years ago to now is just very impressive."

The canine entries this time come from 73 shelters and rescue groups across 36 states and territories. The entrance requirements include being healthy and sturdy enough to be on the field with playmates, between 3-6 months old and having no training.

"We don't want dogs that are show dogs, that are sitting there with a trainer. We want to see them in all their puppy glory. Part of that is to show what puppies are in their true state,' says Schachner.

"They are playful, they are curious, they're going to get into trouble, they're going to do crazy things. And from time to time, they're going to score touchdowns and really impress you."

Light-sensitive lenses can be helpful to many, especially over 50

Q: I see these ads on TV for special driving glasses, but am skeptical. What do you think?

A: I see those ads too, and like most every ad, taking those with a large grain of salt is a good idea. However, the idea is sound. There are several eye conditions where a tinted lens can be very beneficial.

First, anyone over 50 is developing the early stages of cataracts. These develop so slowly in everyone that there is no cause for alarm, and the need for cataract surgery is likely still many years away. However, these early cataracts are making our natural clear focusing lens less flexible and more hazy. These gradually reduce our "contrast sensitivity." Simply put, we have more trouble seeing crisply in poor lighting.

Best example would be driving at dusk or in the rain or in foggy conditions. Wearing specially tinted amber or deep yellow lenses can "brighten" up our vision in those situations. Caution, these are not indicated in bright sunny conditions. We even now have such lenses that are photochromatic — they change their darkness color with changing light levels. The newest generation of light adaptive lenses are available is several colors, and are much faster-changing than what we had just a few years ago. Most popular are lenses that turn dark gray or dark brown in bright sun. Again, age is a big factor. Most everyone over 50 will love the darkening, and will see better, with the photochromic brown lenses — not the gray versions. Some of these can now include polarization too. While these are slower to change color or darkness, they do remove more glare on the highway than non-polarized lenses.

Sorry if this seems confusing, but the options are numerous and constantly changing. I would suggest you have a little discussion with your eye doctor at your next exam. Either your eye doc or perhaps their professional opticians can better explain the best choices for your needs. We live in a very visually demanding world, and with birthdays come some vision issues. Frankly, most people today need more than just one pair of glasses to provide the sharpest and most comfortable vision. Talk with your eye specialist, not "Dr. Google," to get the most accurate information and make the best decisions.

MANKATO, Minn. — As people age, many start to experience more aches and pains throughout their bodies. While many symptoms can be chalked up to the natural aging process, it's important to pay special attention to the cardiovascular system.

So what are some warning signs for underlying problems? Symptoms that suggest you may need a referral to a cardiologist include:

- Chest discomfort.
- Shortness of breath.
- Swelling in your legs. ■ High blood pressure.
- Abnormally fast or slow heart rate.
 - Dizziness or fainting.
- Strong family history of premature heart disease or cardiac death.
- Leg pain or ulcers resulting from blood vessel diseases.

A cardiologist will evaluate your symptoms, review your medical history and may recommend diagnostic tests to appropriately diagnose the cause of your symptoms. The cardiologist also will help your healthcare team evaluate the best form of treatment for you. Your individualized treatment plan could include:

■ Advice on diet and exercise changes: You can lower your risk of heart disease by eating a low-fat and low-sodium diet, getting at least 30 minutes of moderate exercise most days of the week, quitting smoking, and limiting alcohol intake. Doctors recommend eating a Mediterranean diet and avoiding red meat as well as processed food and practicing yoga and meditation.

■ Medications: If lifestyle changes alone aren't enough, your cardiologist may prescribe medications to control your condition. The type of medication you receive will depend on the type of heart condition and sever-

■ A cardiac procedure: If medications aren't enough, your cardiology care team may recommend specific procedures or surgery. The type of procedure or surgery will depend on the type of heart condition and the extent of the damage to your heart.

If your cardiologist decides that you need cardiac surgery, you may be referred to a cardiovascular surgeon who specializes in operations on the heart, lungs and blood vessels. After you recover from the surgery, you will be sent back to your cardiologist for long-term monitoring and care.

DOCTORS RECOMMEND PRACTICING YOGA AND MEDITATION.

our home delivered meals driver. Once we can fulfill the request, the driver will deliver the item during their next delivery.

To make the Senior Pantry a success, we ask for the help of our generous community. Donations of items or money to purchase items for the pantry are greatly appreciated.

The most requested items include: mops, brooms, buckets, bathtub grab bars, cleaning products, and more. If you would like to donate to the Senior Pantry, please call 304-296-9812.

The homebound seniors that we have been able to help thus far are very appreciative.

HOME DELIVERED MEALS

The Home Delivered Meals program was designed to offer a delicious and nutritious meal to older adults who are homebound due to age, illness, and/or circumstance. Drivers not only deliver the meal, but they make well-checks as they speak to the clients. Deliveries are made on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays. Clients will receive a hot or cold meal on each of these days. They will also receive a cold meal on Tuesdays and Thursdays to be used for the next day.

Who is eligible to receive meals? Monongalia county residents at least 60 years of age or older and meet other requirements. This service can be used on a long-term or a temporary basis. To make sure that seniors don't go hungry, our HDM program is available to the client for a suggested donation.

If you have questions or are interested in the Home Delivered Meals program, call 304-296-9812.

Monetary donations are greatly appreciated. Send your tax-deductible donation to Senior Monongalians, P.O. Box 653, Morgantown, WV 26505.

ZOOM TO SENIOR MONONGALIANS

Our agency offers a variety of activities and services that older adults can take advantage of throughout the week. Seniors can come in to socialize and have a delicious hot lunch. Would you like to get out and interact with others your own age or follow your fitness goals?

If you answered yes, but you no longer drive, you may be eligible to take advantage of the Zoom service. This is a free service to adults 60 years or older. For more information, call 304-296-9812.

The importance of relationships in real estate

IN SOME WAYS, I LOVE TECHNOLOGY AND AUTOMATION. I believe in fairness in situations, such as when bids are solicited. I believe in employers objectively considering job applicants based solely upon their qualifications, but as I've grown older, I've also realized there's still a place for old-school relationships and networking.

The key is finding that fine line ... that balance. Now when it comes to the business of real estate, that concept of old-school relationships and networking is actually vitally important. Allow me to explain why I say this.

A high-octane Realtor is one I like to refer to as a quarterback. This person needs to know a good bit about each component of the transaction but doesn't have to be the subject matter expert in each area. What a quality Realtor has at his or her disposal is a network of professionals he or she calls in to best serve clients. These professionals can include lenders, inspectors, attorneys and sometimes contractors.

Some clients come to us wanting to use one of those flashy national lenders who have cool apps that are visually attractive and userfriendly. These national companies spend millions on advertising to win your business, but do you know what they still don't have? They don't have old-school relationships with the local professionals you need to bring a transaction to fruition. Now it's OK if that real estate professional is affiliated with a national company, so long as they themselves, are based in a local

Real estate transactions can be stressful even when most everything goes smoothly When prob lems arise, they can be especially stressful. So, if your lender is based in Missouri, they probably don't know the local Realtors, attorneys or even contractors. Communication can truly suffer, which then causes the buyer or seller to endure even more stress!

On the flip side, when all parties know each other, they tend to work better together and communicate effectively. They have ways of resolving issues more easily due to connections with local resources.

You might have noticed that when I mentioned a good Realtor is like a quarterback with a network of professionals, I didn't include appraisers. This is because in a traditional transaction, the Realtor cannot have any influence on which appraiser is selected. The system in place is used to prevent potential corruption. You certainly wouldn't want the other side of your transaction to unethically influence an appraisal. Would you?

Many Realtors will give you two or three recommendations for lenders, inspectors and contractors so that you still have the power to choose. As I always say, there are good and bad folks in any profession. You need some recommendations — you need your Realtor's network — but you should still have control on these major decisions.

Find a Realtor who will be your quarterback — one who will bring professionals to the table to serve you while still empowering you on one of the biggest financial commitments you may make in your

On Gardening: Let's Dance Sky View is 2024 'Hydrangea of the Year'

This reblooming hydrangea, cold hardy from zones 4-9, will reach up to 3 feet tall with a spread of 4 feet. It conserves its old wood bloom while generating new wood with more blooms.

BY NORMAN WINTER

Associated Press

The last 13-14 months of weather turned me into "The Gardening Curmudgeon." Truth be told, my garden was the most beautiful ever, and I'm not tossing blue sky to you. Well maybe I am to a point, but I'll explain. A Polar Vortex after a mild fall in 2022 followed by a late freeze after leaf emergence took a toll on buds of many blooming shrubs including hydrangeas.

was caught whimpering about the hydrangeas that had few to zero blossoms, while right in front of me was a breeding miracle by the name of Let's Dance Sky View, saying "Look at me, you old coot!" I would have still overlooked it had it not been named Proven Winners 2024 "Hydrangea of the Year."

This caused me to look back at my photos, which caught me totally by surprise. I've got sunrise shots and sunset shots of shrubs loaded with blooms while the once-bloomers maybe had one or two and the older rebloomers had a handful. What in the world was wrong with The Garden Guy?

Tim Woods, aka "The Plant Hunter" said it perfectly in his blog: "With each passing year the genetics on our reblooming Hydrangea macrophylla keep getting better and better. Let's Dance Sky View is one of the best yet. When we trial reblooming hydrangeas, we cut our plants back hard in the fall and once again in the spring. We do this to simulate untimely frosts. We also trial them multiple years outdoors to make sure they bloom reliably in our harsh Michigan climate. If they bloom here, they should bloom everywhere."

Bingo! As it turned out, my Dance Sky hydrangeas had the most blooms of any hydrangea in my landscape. Because of this national recognition, I also just noticed the parentage behind this bloomer, which is thrilling to an old horticulturist. Let's Dance is a Hydrangea macrophylla x Hydrangea serrata (Tuff Stuff, mountain hydrangea) cross.

this reblooming So. hydrangea, cold hardy from zones 4-9, will reach up to 3 feet tall with a spread of 4 feet. It conserves its old wood bloom while generating new wood with more blooms. My blooms showed an array of sky blue, pink and light purple.

I am growing mine in west Georgia and chose a spot with just a couple of hours of direct sun then shifting to filtered light overhead. You will want to use a 48-inch spacing in the landscape. I am growing them in partnership with Shadowland Autumn Frost hostas and Soprano impatiens.

Let's Dance Sky View needs fertile, well-drained soil. Mine are planted in an area where leaves have fallen for decades and I think this may be the best soil I have ever had. If your soil is on the alkaline side, blooms will be pink but the addition of aluminum sulphate fertilizer will turn them blue.

Let's Dance Arriba also has a somewhat similar parentage and it too came through the weather challenges equally well. It is 3 feet by 3 feet in habit. I have it in an area that gets more direct sun and grows in combination with Rainbow Rhythm, Sound of My Heart daylilies and Fluffy arborvitae.

Planting season is just around the corner and what could be better than celebrating with the Hydrangea of the Year, Let's Dance Sky View. Follow me on Facebook @NormanWinterTheGardenGuy for more photos and garden inspiration.

Fall in love with this King of Hearts enamel piece

HE'S NOT AN OFFICIAL SYMBOL of Valentine's Day, but it seems like the right time to have the King of Hearts make an appearance. This King of Hearts enamel was made in 1946 by Kenneth Bates, who may as well be called the king of enamels.

Bates was born in Massachusetts in 1904 and developed a love of art and crafts as a child. He attended the Massachusetts School of Art from 1922 to 1926, where he studied painting and had his first exposure to enamels.

In 1927, he traveled to Cleveland to teach design at the Cleveland School of Art. He realized that there were already many artists working in his preferred medium, watercolor, and decided he would try something different so his work would stand out. His choice? Enamels. At the time, enamel was limited to expensive jewelry houses; it wasn't considered a material for modern art.

Bates's work, from Arts and Crafts-style boxes and bowls to abstracted nature imagery to human figures, changed that. He also encouraged hobbyists to pursue enameling, writing books like "Enameling: Principles and Practice,' published by World Publishing Company in 1951, to make the craft more accessible. Today, collectors value his pieces. His King of Hearts piece sold for $1,188 at an auction by Rago Arts.

Q: I have a ceramic set with six pieces: a bowl, pitcher, covered hairbrush holder and covered soap dish, I assume. The set was given as a gift to me in 1967 or '68 in Sasebo, Japan, or Mons, Belgium, I'm not sure which place. The pattern is the same on all the pieces: white with a blue edge and blue flowers. The bowl and pitcher have numbers on the bottom. Can you help me find information about the set's markings and value, if any?

wash set, or sometimes a cabinets store important

"toilette set." They usually consist of a water pitcher and wash bowl, one or more soap dishes, and a covered toothbrush holder. Based on the dates you gave us, it sounds like the set was made for export to the United States. After World War II, the U.S. imported inexpensive decorative ceramics from Europe and Japan, often to sell at gift shops. They did not always have makers' marks. They were often marked by the importer instead, sometimes with a paper label instead of a permanent mark. The numbers on your bowl and pitcher may indicate their size, model number or production number. Without knowing the maker or identifying the pattern, it is difficult to say where they may have come from. Both Sasebo, Japan, and Mons, Belgium, have long histories of making and exporting ceramics, and both have made blueand-white pottery. Wash sets from the mid-20th century by unidentified makers sell for about $100.

Q: A large and very heavy wooden "cabinet" resembling a grand piano three- or four-times normal size, flat and fanshaped — was situated in the apse of one of the larger cathedrals I visited in England some years ago. All I could learn about the piece was that it provided storage for the capes of high clergy. It's certainly a good possibility that the piece was not usually in that location and had been brought out for the sake of tourists. I would be so grateful if you could add to this scrap of information.

A: It sounds like you saw A: Your set is called a a sacristy cabinet. Sacristy

Kenneth Bates's midcentury enamel pieces like this King of Hearts panel brought the medium into the modern art items like clergy's robes, vessels, objects used in services and parish records. There isn't a single standard design; they can be long and low like a credenza, a tall multi-tiered cabinet or a relatively small cupboard or chest of drawers. They usually have elaborate decorations, like carvings, marquetry, or gilding, that reflect the architectural style of the time and place they were made. For example, an Italian Renaissance (c. 1500) sacristy cabinet may have geometric inlay that looks three-dimensional thanks to use of perspective. A 19th-century Gothic Revival cabinet peaked arches and deeply carved tracery can look like a miniature cathedral itself. Neoclassical cabinets from the late-18th-to-early-19th-century can have simpler geometric shapes. There are French Provincial cabinets with delicate scrolls and curved panels. Like most church furnishings, they are beautifully crafted and are considered works of art.

Inside the outrageous Midcentury Modern Shag House in Palm Springs

BY LISA BOONE

Associated Press

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. - In a neighborhood filled with homogeneous Midcentury Modern residences, Brandon McBurney's Palm Springs home stands out thanks to its 10-foot-tall lime green doors that face the street.

"I wanted something that would stand up to the history of the Palm Springs front door," says Josh Agle, the artist popularly known as Shag, who designed the house and chose the lively hue. "There's no such thing as too cheesy."

Agle was referring to the Shag House, McBurney's four-bedroom home designed by architects Dan Palmer and William Krisel for the Alexander Construction Co. in 1958. The house started as a whimsical idea by branding guru John-Patrick Flynn in 2021: Purchase a rundown Midcentury Modern tract home in Palm Springs and invite Shag to reimagine it as one of his artworks.

On a recent sunny afternoon, Agle, whose colorful artworks depict cool cats, Hawaiian tiki and martini-sipping swingers, had just put the finishing touches on the house, which will be open to the public during Modernism Week, which runs Feb. 15-25.

"We built it exactly to his specifications," says Flynn, who found the house along with McBurney and Agle after looking at 22 others. "Josh created a piece of art, handed it to us, and said, 'Build this.' And we did."

The process was sometimes challenging. For instance, when Agle designed an outdoor bar topped with a round roof, the contractors told the trio it was impossible to build. However, the 61-year-old artist insisted. "He stayed true to his design," Flynn says of the bar, now ready for cocktail service.

As the principal designer, Agle had the final say on the home's design, with some input from McBurney, 46, who purchased the house in the Little Beverly Hills neighborhood of Palm Springs for $935,750 in 2021.

"I would do renderings, and they would often tell me it would be hard to do," Agle says of the design and build process. "I changed some things. But I was unbending on the bar, especially since it was in the renderings, and they had shown it on social media."

Although McBurney was OK Agle's tongue-in-cheek with designs, including cat-, tiki- and Asian-themed bedrooms with velvet paintings and Googie-style lava lamps, he wasn't initially sold on the home's orange ceilings. But now he's a fan. His only request? A hanging daybed and a Buddha statue overlooking the pool in the backvard.

Agle's artworks tread between lighthearted joy and sincere nostalgia: Rat Packers spinning records and sipping martinis inside the John Lautner Compound in Desert Hot Springs; cocktail parties at Richard Neutra's Kaufmann Desert House; and a family picnic outside the Eames House in Pacific Palisades. His latest piece, "The Martini," Mammoth inspired by his father, who was in a fraternity at UCLA. The painting hangs over the bar in the game room and is fully realized in the Shag House's backyard.

Artist Josh Agle (aka Shag) on right, and Brandon McBurney outside McBurney's home, better known as the "Shag House" on Jan. 10, in Palm Springs, Calif.

"I've always been a fan of Shag's art," says McBurney, an ecommerce executive for supermarket chain Kroger who has been coming to Palm Springs for more than 20 years. Originally from the Pacific Northwest, he lives in the desert full-time and hopes to open his home for fundraising and charity events.

"How can I not share this house?" says McBurney, decked out in a Palm Springs-appropriate pink and green floral blazer by Mr. Turk. (McBurney describes the renovation as a "million-dollar" project, including what he spent and donations from sponsors Ferguson Bath, Kitchen & Lighting Gallery, JennAir and California Closets, among others.)

He adds, sounding a bit wistful: "I'm so blessed to be able to live here. This house is iconic. It's a beautiful representation of Josh's art."

Agle admits he wasn't a fan of Palm Springs when he first came to the desert enclave in the 1980s. "It was pretty boring," he says. "But the architecture was amazing — even the commercial buildings. You could see what it once was. I started painting not what it used to be but what I hoped it would become. I was painting the lifestyle I wanted to live, the parties I wanted to be at and the houses I wanted to live in

Today, past and present collide at the Shag House, which is a testament to sunny midcentury Palm Springs and the postwar optimism of that time. In fact, it's hard to feel sad while experiencing the Shag House, which is a little like viewing a holiday light display: You can't help but smile when you see it and wish it would stav open all vear.

Like Palm Springs itself, the house has a casual vacation vibe. "I didn't want to take the house too seriously," Agle says as he walks by an Operation gameinspired artwork depicting a Hennessy Heart, Bacardi Brain and Ketel One Kidney.

Clad in a chartreuse sport coat, white pants and a vintageinspired shirt made from a fluorescent print fabric, Agle says, "There is a strong alcohol theme throughout the house, which plays into my art as well.

Agle doesn't drink anymore he drolly describes it as "career research" — but he still loves to paint alcohol-fueled party scenes. "It points to a mythical lifestyle that Palm Springs encapsulates," Agle says. "People from L.A. and movie stars would come to Palm Springs and start drinking at noon, have drinks at the clubhouse, go out to Melvyn's and have a couple more drinks. Because they weren't working, they could live that lifestyle, if only for a weekend." Regarding the home's colorful

Some saddled with credit card debt as rent, prices remain high

BY KEN SWEET

Associated Press

NEW YORK — While the U.S. economy is broadly healthy, pockets of Americans have run through their savings and run up their credit card balances after battling inflation for more than two years.

Experts worry members of these groups mostly lower- and middleincome Americans, who tend to be renters - are falling behind on their debts and could face further deterioration of their financial health in the year ahead, particularly those who have recently resumed paying off student loans.

"The U.S. economy is currently performing better than most forecasters expected a year ago, thanks in large part to a resilient consumer," wrote Sher-McLoud, economist with TD Economics, in a report issued Wednesday. "However, more recently that spending is increasingly being financed by credit cards."

Americans held more than $1.05 trillion on their credit cards in the third quarter of 2023, a record, and a figure certain to grow once the fourth-quarter data is released by Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. next month. A recent report from the credit rating company Moody's showed that credit card delinquency rates and charge-off rates, or the percent of loans that a bank believes will never be repaid, are now well above their 2019 levels and are expected to keep climbing.

These worrisome metrics coincide with the average interest rate on a bank credit card of roughly 21.5%, the highest it's been since the Federal Reserve started tracking the data in 1994.

"Overall, the consumer is credit healthy. However, the reality is that there are starting to be some significant signs of stress," said Silvio Tavares, president and CEO of VantageScore, one of the country's two major credit scoring systems.

Most analyses of Americans' financial health tend to tell a tale of two consumers. On one side are the roughly two-thirds of Americans who own their homes and those who've invested in the stock market and done substantially well. They generally had the savings cushion necessary to weather high inflation. Delinquency rates on single-family homes remain at near historic lows and home prices have continued to climb.

But for the rest of America, things are looking rough.

"You have these noticeable pockets of consumers mostly middle- and lowerincome renters who have not benefitted from the wealth effect of higher housing prices and stock prices – who are feeling financial stress and that's driving up these delinquency levels. They've been hit very hard by inflation," said Warren Kornfeld, a senior vice president at Moody's, in an interview.

Kornfeld, who co-wrote a report last week looking at the climbing levels of delinquencies, expects them to keep climbing this year.

Consumers' financial health could play a big role in the 2024 election. President Joe Biden is running in part on his efforts to bring down costs for U.S. families. Republicans counter that Biden is to blame for higher costs in the first place.

One way to gauge this bifurcation of the American economy is by looking at the results of some major credit card companies. The customers of Capital One, Discover Financial and Synchrony have historically been those with lower credit scores, while American Express typically serves the wealthiest and well-to-do.

At Synchrony Bank, the largest issuer of retail co-charge-off rate jumped from 3.5% to 5.6% in a year. Meanwhile, roughly 4.7% of Synchrony customers are 30 days or more behind on their bills, which is also up from a year ago.

Discover's customers are carrying $102 billion in balances on their credit cards, up 13% from a year earlier. Meanwhile, the charge-off rates and 30-day delinquency rates have climbed. Executives say they can see the impact of inflation.

"Think about a consumer that makes $50,000 a year," said John Green, Discover's chief financial officer, at an investor conference in December. "When inflation outpaces vour wage growth, they're making choices in terms of what they're going to spend, what bill they're going to pay and what they're going to frankly put on their table."

Inflation peaked at 9.1% in June 2022 and is now brand credit cards, the slightly above 3%. But the costs of many goods and services remains elevated. A loaf of bread that cost $1.54 in December 2020 cost $2.02 at the end of last year, and a gallon of gas has risen from an average of $2.17 to $3.29 in the same timeframe, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Renters in particular have felt the pinch. The median rent for a property with up to two bedrooms has jumped from $1,424 at the end of 2020 to $1,713 at the end of last year, according to realtor.com.

VantageScore's Tavares worries that the recent reintroduction of student loan payments could more acutely impact these customers in their ability to repay their debts.

"Folks are scrambling to pay these obligations that they haven't had to pay in three years, and it's hitting exactly the demographic we are talking about here: the younger folk, less affluent folk," Tavares said.

interiors, which feature a glossy orange and green kitchen, blue Case Studystyle daybeds and an Eames lounge chair in a custom orange fabric, Agle wanted to fight neutral trends like cream-colored boucle. "Ten to 15 years ago, you'd walk into a Midcentury Modern shop in Palm Springs, and everything was turquoise and green," he says. "The colors I chose for the house mostly orange, green and blue — are appropriate for Palm Springs."

The result is an upbeat and happy home that feels like you have somehow touched down in a surreal version of one of Agle's paintings.

"It is no surprise that Shag is an icon in Palm Springs," says Elizabeth Armstrong, an independent curator and former director of the Palm Springs Art Museum, in an email. While Modernism Week takes historic preservation seriously, Armstrong adds, "Shag has created a new kind of concept house. A Retro-Futurist known for his nostalgic take on all things Midcentury Modern, visitors can immerse in a totally seductive and surreal 3-D version of Shag's take on Camp Modernism. It's Shagalicious."

After two years of supply chain issues, labor disruptions and weather delays, the Shag House is finally ready to open its doors on Feb. 15. Representatives for Modernism Week estimate that more than 4,000 people will come through the house, in addition to it hosting special events and parties for more than 300 people. As Agle prepares for the unveiling, he hopes visitors will "have fun and don't take it too seriously."

True to their initial concept, the home is a timeless treasure from a forwardthinking team that worked to preserve its past.

"We added square footage, but you can still recognize that it's an Alexander house," says project manager Flynn. "I found a woman whose grandparents owned the house from 1968 to 1992, and I invited her and her stepbrother to come see the house. She stood there with tears and said, 'I recognize my grandparents' house. I see the magic that you have created."

while,

TV Media

S teadily and surely, the stars of "This Is Us" have been moving on to other projects.

Milo Ventimiglia was first with the ABC series "The Company You Keep," which had a midseason run last year. His former television "wife," Mandy Moore, made her series comeback recently with the second season of Peacock's "Dr. Death." Sterling K. Brown appears in the current movie "American Fiction," and his ex-spouse from "This Is Us" — Susan Kelechi Watson has been working on a Netflix series titled "The Residence," which also involved starred in the holiday horror movie "A Creature Was Stirring" (2023) and has been advancing her singing career.

Now, it's Justin Hartley's turn.

Formerly the commitmentphobic and troubleprone Kevin Pearson in "This Is Us," he plays someone much more in command in "Tracker," a drama series that gets a post-Super Bowl premiere slot, Sunday, Feb. 11, on CBS and Paramount+. The series will stay on Sundays thereafter, with Hartley (also an executive producer of the show) playing Colter Shaw, a survivalist who crosses the country, using his specialized skills to help

protests continued, but he marvels that "we were somehow able to save our premiere date and get back into production in enough time to let us keep going like it never happened ... which is pretty amazing. We'd worked so hard on this, there was some stress, but it's wonderful to report for work as normal — just a reminder of what a great business we have."

"Tracker" is based on the bestselling novel "The Never Game" (which was also the series' original title) by "The Bone Collector" author Jeffery Deaver, and that name adapts Shaw's credo that he uses to advise people he assists: "Never let panic take the wheel." Indeed, the first episode starts with

assisting a fearful hiker who has been seriously injured, then follows him as he seeks a missing youngster. In both cases, he stays calm as he informs his new companions of their odds for survival under their respective circumstances.

The opening story involving woodlands, rivers, high cliffs and the like suggests that much of "Tracker" will be set in visually rich locations, and Hartley reports that he's an outdoorsy sort anyway. He also appreciates that Colter, who typically would rather just do something than explain it, "can be so intense. He doesn't just let life happen to him, like Kevin did [on 'This Is Us']."

'With this guy, if there's some kind of a problem, he's the one who's going to figure it out. And selfishly for me as an actor, it's wonderful to take on a different role. I loved playing Kevin, but I'm having the time of my life. ['Tracker' is cool, but it's also believable. I like that Colter is not a superhero. If he gets shot, he bleeds. He doesn't have an iron skin."

As he starts "Tracker," Hartley has a major element of "This Is" Us" still with him: director and fellow executive producer Ken Olin, also known as an actor from such series as "thirtysomething." Hartley says of Olin: "He's like family. He's become one of my best friends in the world. I would do just about anything for that guy, and it's just nice to see a familiar face."

Hartley adds that he remains in touch regularly with his "This Is Us" castmates, "every single one of them. We're all great friends, and the thing is that we're all so different. If I read a quote from one of them, I would be able to tell you in half a second who said it. I'll always be in touch with them. They're just wonderful people."

The husband of actress Sofia Pernas ("Blood & Treasure"), Hartley embraces the opportunity to potentially have so many eyes on the premiere of "Tracker" with it coming after the Super Bowl, traditionally one of the mostwatched television events of any vear.

"I want to play in the majors," he reasons. "I'm a competitor, and I love all that stuff. You give it your all. We're going to put our best product out there and do exactly what we set out to do. I know the show is good, and we have everything going for us. I understand about the pressure, but if you have this opportunity, let's do it and see what happens.

Catch Justin Hartley in his brand-new series, "Tracker," when it premieres in its post-Super Bowl slot Sunday, Feb. 11, on CBS and Paramount+.

people — both police and private citizens — with searches and collects rewards for the missions when they're completed. His complicated family history has given him demons he tries to exorcise in the course of doing his work.

Also featuring Abby McEnany ("Work in Progress") and Robin Weigert ("Deadwood") as the managers of Colter's business affairs, "Tracker" is one of the first new series to debut after last year's strikes by writers and actors. The friendly Hartley admits he was "a little nervous" as those

Volkanovski returns to featherweight looking to dominate at UFC 298

By Roberto Jozef

TV Media

It's time! Another weekend of UFC bouts is right around the corner, as UFC 298 kicks off Saturday, Feb. 15, at the Honda Center in Anaheim, California.

Alexander "The Great" Volkanovski gets set to defend his featherweight title belt for a sixth time against the 26-year-old rising star from Halle, Germany, Ilia "El Matador" Topuria, in the main event, airing live on ESPN+ and PPV, with prelims live on ESPN.

Having remained undefeated in the featherweight division, Alexander Volkaonvski looks determined to get himself back into the win column after putting his win streak on the line, coming up short twice against a formidable lightweight champion in Islam Makhachev.

Still regarded by many as the greatest featherweight in mixed martial arts, his failed bid to become a two-division champ has cast some doubts, with his return to the octagon coming just four months after a knockout loss at UFC 294 in October.

Speaking to Michael Bisping on his You-Tube channel, Volkanovski is confident in his abilities and experience having fought three times in 2023. "He's a good matchup. A lot of hype around him, undefeated, I think this is just the perfect bounce-back fight for me as well. A lot of people are saying he's dangerous, which, look, he is dangerous," Volkanovski said.
"He's a powerful dude. He's undefeated.
That's a story in itself. You've got the story of what happened in my last fight. People are like, 'Oh, is he coming back too soon?' All this is part of the story. When I look at it, I'm like, 'Mate, I've been in camp for that long.' I'm hearing people saying, 'Oh, he's back too soon.' I just can't see it," Volkanovski said.

While Volkanovski does hold an impressive 26-3 record, Illia Topuria comes in undefeated at 14-0 with 12 bouts ending in stoppages. Since joining the UFC in 2020, he's racked up six wins, including his most dominant and recent victory coming against Josh Emmett.

Hypnotic

Haunted by the abduction of his young daughter, Det. Danny Rourke (Affleck) is hellbent on finding her three years later. During his investigation, he encounters Diana Cruz (Braga), a psychic who aides Rourke in his search for a mysterious man involved in a heist that Rourke believes may have a connection to his daughter's disappearance.

The more evidence they uncover, the more supernatural their experiences become.

Priscilla

At 14 years old, Priscilla Beaulieu (Spaeny) is a shy but well-mannered girl constantly moved around by her stepfather's military career. While stationed in West Germany, Priscilla becomes absolutely starstruck when she meets the 24-year-old Elvis Presley (Elordi), who had been drafted by the military at the height of his popularity. From her hair and makeup to experimenting with drugs, Priscilla's life changes drastically and she along with it — in her eagerness to stay with Elvis. Adapted from Priscilla Presley's 1985 memoir "Elvis and Me," "Priscilla" depicts the life of Priscilla and her bittersweet and often tumultuous relationship with Elvis Pres-

See good eats galore in an all-new season of 'DDD'

By Caroline Collacutt

TV Media

t's time to set the table — the king of flavor is coming to town. Guy Fieri is behind the wheel and ready to eat, as Season 36 of "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives" is in full swing, with an all-new episode airing Friday, Feb. 16, on Food Network.

He may be the mayor of Flavortown, but Guy Fieri has become a nationwide delight as he drives his bright red, 1968 Chevy Camaro SS convertible from city to city across America, sitting down for meals that would make even the pickiest chefs ask for seconds.

So far this season, Fieri has traveled to taste some unbelievable eats, diving headfirst into what the network calls a "meaty smorgasbord." From Tennessee, to Florida, to North Carolina and New Hampshire, Guy Fieri has been driving his way to restaurants of all shapes and sizes, digging into everything from bomb bagels and some classically delicious pizzas and tacos, to elevated versions of American classics, like shrimp and grits. As he tackles the latest and greatest in side-of-the-road cuisine, Fieri has taken to this latest season of "DDD" like a fish takes to water, and the adventure has just begun.

A description given by Food Network shares that this upcoming sixth episode will see Fieri jumping into a full-fledged culinary adventure, "starting in San Diego, where there's a 2-for-1 spot servin' Baja-style seafood and rich bone marrow tacos, and a funky food truck puttin' out next-level shawarma. Then in Taos, [New Mexico], a pan-Asian joint is pullin' out the stops with curry noodles and a bison Reuben

Guy Fieri hosts "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives"

Following that, the mayor of Flavortown will pack his bags yet again and head out in search of some delicious Thai food, some pie and some hearty fries. "In San Diego," Food Network says, "an amazing Asian spot is servin' phenomenal fried fish and righteous ribs. Plus, in Arroyo Seco, [New Mexico], a New Zealand food truck is making mouthwatering meat pies and a modern comfort joint is cooking up a mushroom masterpiece and loaded bison chili fries."

As episodes air, some of Fieri's favorite, newly found recipes are shared on Food Network's website, including the likes of chicken chipotle pie, fried rockfish, pollo borachon (drunken chicken), boss hawg and pastrami beef rib boards, allowing viewers to participate in the chef's mouth-watering road trip from right at home.

With a never-ending appetite, Guy Fieri continues his culinary adventure in each new episode of "Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives," airing Fridays on Food Net-

"Life Below Zero: Next Generation" - Season 6

If you're lost watching the seventh season of "Life Below Zero: Next Generation" currently airing on National Geographic, be sure to review the previous seasons on Disney+, which includes the Season 6 when it debuts Wednesday, Feb. 14, on the streamer. For the uninitiated, this National Geographic documentary series follows a group of people that gave up their cozy lives in civilization to live in the Alaskan wilderness. For this group, is having true, unbridled freedom worth the constant threat to their lives? Narrated by Mocean Melvin (Strangers of Paradise: Final Fantasy Origin), the sixth season follows the likes of Johnny Wolfe: Jessi and Chris Morse; RJ and Robert Miller; Chevie, Sonta, Sydney and Ryder Roach; and Kaleb, Brittany, Gilbert and Elovie Rowland as they brave the harsh environment and sub-zero temperatures of Alaska. This season of "Life Below Zero: Next Generation" is executively produced by Brijit Griffith ("Ice Road Trucker"), Joseph Litzinger ("Will Work for Views: The Lo-Fi Life of Weird Paul," 2017), Travis Shakespeare ("Playing with FIRE: The Documentary," 2019) and Kevin Tao Mohs ("Life Below Zero").

"Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures" -Season 1, New Episodes

Coming off of recent wins at the Children's and Family Emmy Awards for Outstanding Editing and Sound Mixing, the first season of "Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures" comes to its long-waited conclusion when its final six episodes release Wednesday, Feb. 14, on Disney+. This kid-friendly take on the venerable sci-fi franchise follows

Kai Brightstar (Jamaal Avery Jr., "The Color Purple," 2023) and his fellow Jedi younglings, Lys Solay (Juliet Donenfeld, "The Big Show Show") and Nubs (Dee Bradley Baker, "Phineas and Ferb"), as explore the galaxy under the watchful eye of their mentor, Yoda (Piotr Michael, "Beavis and Butt-Head"). On their adventures, the younglings learn the ways of the Force, which come in the way of valuable life lessons. During this final batch of episodes. the younglings travel to Tenoo for wilderness training, meet up with a group of Jedi stationed on Batuu and come into contact with key characters from Star Wars' "High Republic" era, which includes Bell Zettifar (Marcus Scribner, "Black-ish"), Supreme Chancellor of the Galactic Republic Lina Soh (Justine Lee. Persona 3 Reload) and Master Maru (Liam O'Brien, "Naruto"). Rounding out the cast are Emma Berman ("Luca," 2021) as Nash Durango, Trey

The cast of "Life Below Zero: Next Generation"

Murphy ("The Will," 2020) as Taborr Val Dorn, Jonathan Lipow ("Transformers:War for Cybertron Trilogy") as RJ-83 and Nasim Pedrad ("Alladin," 2019) as Master Zia Zanna. Directed by Elliot M. Bour ("Elena of Avalor"), Anthony Bell ("Rugrats"), Shellie Kvilvang ("Hi Hi Puffy AmiYumi") and Casey Lowe ("Space Jam: A New Legacy," 2021), "Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures" features writing from Michael Olson ("Puppy Dog Pals"), Mia Resella ("The Ghost and Molly McGee"), Lamont Magee ("Black Lightning"), Brian Hall ("Now You See Me," 2013), Katie Kaniewski ("Transformers: BotBots"), Julius Harper Jr. ("The Prodigal Song," 2016), Christian Streaty ("Star Wars: The Bad Batch"), Charley Feldman ("The Owl House"), Cavan Scott ("Star Wars Adventures"), Rick Williams ("Jurassic World: Camp Cretaceous") and Maralisa Ortiz.

"Life & Beth" - Season 2

Amy Schumer ("Trainwreck," 2015) brings hilarity to introspection in the comedy drama series "Life & Beth," premiering its second season Friday, Feb. 16, on Hulu. After a life-altering incident, New York City wine distributor Beth (Schumer) starts having flashbacks to her life as a teen. From these flashbacks, Beth learns more about how she came to be, who she is and who she wants to become in the future, while she works towards building a better, more authentic life for herself. This season, as Beth and John's (Michael Cera, "Arrested Development") relationship grows more serious and she begins to look at the possibility of marriage and a family, Beth begins to examine her own fears and her traumatic history with relationships. Created, executive produced, directed and written by Schumer, the series is also executive produced by Ryan McFaul ("Crashing"), Kevin Kane ("The Irishman," 2019) and Daniel Powell ("I Think You Should Leave With Tim Robinson"). Kane, Yamaneika Saunders ("In Security"), Michael Rapaport ("Atypical"), Susannah Flood ("For the People"), Laura Benanti ("Younger"), Lavar Walker ("Uncle Drew," 2018), Sas Goldberg ("American Princess"), Arielle Siegel ("Inside Amy Schumer") and Camiel Warren-Taylor ("Life," 2017) also star in the series.

"The Space Race" (2023)

Explore the life and work of an extraordinary group of astronauts when National Geographic's feature documentary "The Space Race" premieres Tuesday, Feb. 13, on Hulu. From directors Lisa Cortés ("Little Richard: I Am Everything," 2023) and Diego Hurtado de Mendoza ("Rulon Gardner Won't Die," 2021), the film profiles the pioneering Black pilots, scientists and engineers — including Guion Bluford, Ed Dwight and Charles Bolden, among many others — who joined NASA to serve their country in space, even as their country failed to achieve equality for them back on Earth. Through a decadeslong fight for equality, "from 1963, when the assassination of JFK thwarted Captain Ed Dwight's guest to reach the moon, to 2020, when the echoes of the civil unrest sparked by the killing of George Floyd reached the International Space Station" (per National Geographic), the stories of the bright dreams and perseverance of Black Americans at NASA "[turn] science fiction into science fact and forever [redefine] what 'the right stuff' looks like, giving us new heroes to celebrate and a fresh history to explore" (National Geographic). With writing by Mark Monroe ("Icarus: The Aftermath," 2022), "The Space Race" is produced by Cortés, Mendoza and Monroe, alongside Aly Parker ("The Bee Gees: How Can You Mend a Broken Heart," 2020), Keero Singh Birla ("Eat St.") and Alex Bowen ("Jazz Fest: A New Orleans Story," 2022). Carolyn Bernstein ("The Rescue," 2021), Leland Melvin ("One Strange Rock"), Tony Rosenthal ("Rather," 2023) and Frank Marshal ("Carole King & James Taylor: Just Call Out My Name," 2022) are executive producers.

"Next Goal Wins" (2023)

Starring the likes Taika Waititi ("What We Do in the Shadows," 2015), Michael Fassbender ("Shame," 2011), Elisabeth Moss ("The Handmaid's Tale"), Luke Hemsworth ("Thor: Ragnarok," 2017) and more, the sports comedy film, "Next Goal Wins," is available to stream on Hulu as of Thursday, Feb. 15. Written, directed and produced by Waititi, alongside co-writer lain Morris ("The Inbetweeners"), this entertaining romp joins Dutch-American soccer coach Thomas Rongen (Fassbender) as he faces an seemingly impossible mission: to take on the leadership of the American Samoa national team, dubbed one of the weakest soccer clubs worldwide, and transform them into a top-notch squad capable of winning agaisnt the best. With a touching storyline and a unique cast of characters, the film's all-star cast also includes Will Arnet ("The Lego Movie," 2014), Rhys Darby ("Flight of the Conchords"), Kaitlyn Dever ("Booksmart," 2019), Oscar Kightley ("Duckrockers"), Rachel House ("Moana," 2016), Beulah Koale ("Hawaii Five-0"), Chris Alosio ("Talk to Me," 2022), Levy Tuiala ("Aloha Heart," 2023), David Fane ("Our Flag Means Death"), Beulah Koale ("Hawaii Five-0") and newcomer Kaimana.

"Five Blind Dates" (2024)

Get lucky in love with the new Australian rom-com "Five Blind Dates," when it premieres Tuesday, Feb. 13, on Prime Video. Unlucky in love and struggling to keep her traditional Chinese tea shop afloat, Lia (Shuang Hu, "The Family Law") finds life rubbing it in even more when she visits her family in her hometown for her sister Alice's (Tiffany Wong, "Roller Coaster Testers") engagement festivities. Gifted with the unwelcome prophecy that she will meet her suitor in her next five dates, and that her love life is closely intertwined with her tea shop. Lia reluctantly agrees to be set up with five different men. With her best friend, Mason (Ilai Swindells, "Bay of Fires"), by her side, Lia sets out to save her shop and (maybe) find love, and herself, along the way. Directed by Shawn Seet ("Underbelly") and written by Hu and Nathan Ramos-Park ("Ero," 2021), the cast also includes Yoson An ("Mulan," 2020), Jon Prasida ("Kung Fu"), Desmond Chiam ("The Falcon and the Winter Soldier"), Renee Lim ("Please Like Me"), Tzi Ma ("Arrival," 2016) and Rob Collins ("RFDS").

"Pensati Sexy" (2024)

This "fairy godmother" comes with more than a glass slipper: meet a modern-day Cinderella in the new Italian rom-com "Pensati Sexy," premiering Monday, Feb. 12, on Prime Video. Directed by Michela Andreozzi ("Genitori vs Influencer," 2021) and written by Daniela Delle Foglie ("Gigolò per caso"), this film follows down-on-herself Maddalena (Diana Del Bufalo, "7 Women and a Murder," 2021) as she heads on a journey of self-discovery and exploration, searching for ways to embrace her sexy self. Along the way, she meets real-life adult film star Valentina Nappi (played by herself), who takes her new friend on a hilarious and eye-opening journey inside herself, in order for Maddalena to discover her potential both as a woman, and as a writer. Produced by Fabula Pictures, "Pensati Sexy" also stars Raoul Bova ("Alien vs. Predator," 2004), Alessandro Tiberi ("To Rome with Love," 2012), Angela Finocchiaro ("The Invisible Wall," 1991), Camilla Filippi ("The Trial"), Jenny De Nucci ("Phobia," 2023), Fabrizio Colica ("Il nostro ultimo," 2015), Ludovica Di Donato ("Tainted Souls," 2017) and Esther Elisha ("An Astrological Guide for Broken Hearts").

"Mission: Impossible – Roque Nation" (2015)

With a cast including Tom Cruise ("Top Gun," 1986), Jeremy Renner ("The Hurt Locker," 2008) Simon Pegg ("Shaun of the Dead," 2004) and Rebecca Ferguson ("The Greatest Showman," 2017), the fifth installment of this high-octane series, "Mission: Impossible — Rogue Nation," is available to stream on Prime Video Tuesday, Feb. 13. Acting as a sequel to "Mission: Impossible — Ghost Protocol" (2011), this action adventure sees Impossible Missions Force agent Ethan Hunt (Cruise) and his elite team — who were previously disbanded, and now face Hunt's pursuit — join forces to fight The Syndicate, an international terrorist group of disenfranchised government agents from across the world. From Vienna, to London and beyond, the group must out-smart their most complicated criminals vet. From writer and director Christopher McQuarrie ("The Usual Suspects," 1995) and based on the original television series created by Bruce Geller ("Mission: Impossible"), "Rogue Nation" also stars Tom Hollander ("Pride & Prejudice," 2005), Alec Baldwin ("The Departed," 2006), Ving Rhames ("Pulp Fiction," 1994), Sean Harris ("The Gold"), Simon McBurney ("Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy," 2011), Jingchi Zhang ("Rush Hour 3," 2007), Jens Hultén ("Skyfall," 2012) and Nigel Barber ("Agent Hamilton").

"Players" (2024)

Get back in the game with the new romcom "Players," making its debut Wednesday, Feb. 14, on Netflix. For years, New York sportswriter Mack (Gina Rodriguez, "Jane the Virgin"), her friend Adam (Damon Wavans Jr., "Happy Endings") and their crew have been crafting a roster of successful 'plays' to land hookups. While their plays have led to countless one-night stands for the group over the years, their playbook comes with a strict set of rules — most importantly, that you can't build a relationship from a play. So, when Mack unexpectedly falls for one of her latest targets, a charming war correspondent named Nick (Tom Ellis, "Lucifer"), she begins to question the game and is forced to learn what it truly means to play for keeps. Directed by Trish Sie ("Sitting in Bars With Cake," 2023) and written by Whit Anderson ("Daredevil"), "Players" also stars Joel Courtney ("Jesus Revolution," 2023), Augustus Prew ("The Morning Show"), Liza Koshy ("Liza on Demand"), Ego Nwodim ("Saturday Night Live") and Marin Hinkle ("The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel").

"The Vince Staples Show"

Who is Vince Staples, really? Find out in the new limited series "The Vince Staples Show," premiering Thursday, Feb. 15, on Netflix. The comedy series follows "kind of famous, kind of rich, kind of criminal (but not really)" (per Netflix Tudum) rapper and actor Vince Staples ("Abbott Elementary"), on his (fictional) daily adventures, where anything that can go wrong usually does. From the mind of Staples, who also writes and executive produces for the show, the series sees him team up with powerhouse producer Kenya Barris ("Black-ish"), as well as fellow executive producers, writers and showrunners lan Edelman ("How to Make It in America") and Maurice Williams ("Entergalactic," 2022). The series also stars Naté Jones ("Abbott Elementary"), Tiberious

Byrd ("Snowfall"), Vanessa Bell Calloway ("Saints & Sinners"), Andrea Ellsworth ("Truth Be Told"), Arturo Castro ("Broad City"), Scott MacArthur ("Killing It"), Bryan Greenberg ("How to Make It in America") and Myles Bullock ("BMF").

"Taylor Tomlinson: Have it All"
Shoot for the moon with comedian Taylor
Tomlinson in her new stand-up special,
"Taylor Tomlinson: Have it All," premiering
Tuesday, Feb. 13, on Netflix. Her third Netflix original special — following 2020's "Quarter Life Crisis" and 2022's "Look at You"— the new "After Midnight" host takes to the stage at Capital One Hall in Tysons, Virginia, for this latest set. In her own unique comedic stylings, Tomlinson "talks about having your dream job, finding your perfect partner, dealing with anxiety and insomnia all while asking the age-old question ... can you really have it all?" (per Netflix). Directed by Kristian Mercado ("Taylor Tomlinson: Look at You," 2022), the special features Tomlinson and Judi

Marmel ("Bookie") as executive producers.

"Einstein and the Bomb"

From BBC Studios and director Anthony Philipson ("All or Nothing: Tottenham Hotspur"), the new docu-drama, "Einstein and the Bomb," premieres on Netflix Friday, Feb. 16. Coming archival footage with dramatizations of events from Albert Einstein's (portrayed by Aidan McArdle, "Spy/Master"), the series explores the genius's life, including when he fled Nazi Germany, and the profound impact his work had on both science and history. Produced by Anne Mensah ("The Tunnel") and executive produced by Andrew Cohen ("Horizon") and James Van Der Pool ("Wonders of the Universe"), the series also stars Andrew Havill ("The Crown"), Leo Ashizawa ("A Discovery of Witches"), James Musgrave ("Fresh Meat"), Rachel Barry ("Daddy Issues," 2018), Helena Westerman ("The Wheel of Time"), Simon Haines ("Litvinenko"), Simon Markey ("Horatio Hornblower: The Duel," 1998) and new talent Jay Lewis Mitchell.

Gary Cole stars in "NCIS"

The Bachelor

4 8 p.m.

Love is in the air as Season 28 of this fanfavorite dating show continues with a sugar-sweet new episode airing just in time for Valentine's Day. This time, 28-year-old tennis pro Joey Graziadei from Season 20 of "The Bachelorette" searches for the One.

Mysteries of the Unknown (TRAV) 8 p.m.

Host Don Wildman examines fascinating artifacts in his hunt to uncover the truth about some of history's biggest mysteries, including relics from Joseph Merrick better known as the Elephant Man and film star Charlie Chapin's eventual life in exile.

NCIS

② ⑥ ⑦ 9 p.m. While undercover in a prison to prevent a Russian terrorist attack, Torres (Wilmer Valderrama) spots someone from his past. Now, in this season premiere, the team helps the undercover agent confront the man who terrorized his family when he was a child.

Gospel

13 24 9 p.m.

Henry Louis Gates Jr. looks at the full spectrum of gospel music, exploring the history of Black spirituality through song. In this premiere, he explores how southern migrants fused blues and jazz during the 1940s, making Black religious music mainstream.

The Irrational

9 11 12 10 p.m.

For behavioral science professor Alec Mercer (Jesse L. Martin), figuring out a criminal's next move is all part of the job. When the authorities need help with cases, they call Mercer and his team to find the truth, no matter how unexpected.

Tori and Zach Roloff with their children in "Little People, Big World"

Finding Your Roots With Henry Louis Gates, Jr.

13 24 8 p.m.

Using the latest methods in ancestry research as well as analyzing genetic code to trace bloodlines, educator and host Henry Louis Gates Jr. helps actress Danielle Brooks and legendary singer Dionne Warwick learn about their long-lost ancestors.

Road Wars

A&E 9 p.m.

Mind your (road) manners. In this new episode, a driver takes things too far when they follow the other back to his home in Wooster, Ohio after an incident. Then, a driver experiences how it is to fly after soaring over 120 feet off a tow truck ramp.

Little People, Big World

тк 9 р.т.

The legacy of Roloff Farms is at stake in an all-new season of this hit TLC reality series. Father Matt is at odds with his son Zach as they fail to come to an agreement over the farm's future. Seeing no future in the farm, Zach relocates his family.

Why the Heck Did I Buy This House?

нату 9 р.т.

Sometimes, going with your gut leads to an upset stomach. That's the case for homeowners who fell in love with their quirky mid-century lake house before realizing it's dysfunctional. Designer Kim Wolfe takes on the challenge and creates a beauty.

The Bermuda Triangle: Into Cursed Waters

(HIST) 10:05 p.m.

In this season finale, the team of Mike Barnette, Jimmy Gadomski, Jason Harris, David O'Keefe and Wayne Abbot look for what might have happened to the most famous missing ships and planes — and their passengers — in the Bermuda Triangle.

Hannah Simone stars in "Not Dead Yet"

I Can See Your Voice

(46) (53) 8 p.m.

A good actor can sell anything, even a bad singing voice. Ken Jeong hosts this game show, in which mentors help contestants guess between good and bad singers, without ever hearing them sing. Carnie Wilson and Maggie Lawson serve as celebrity detectives.

Not Dead Yet

4 8:30 p.m.

It's an unlikely place to think about new beginnings, but obituary writer Nell Serrano (Gina Rodriguez) is broke, newly single and needs a break. Luckily, her work has her seeing dead people, who enjoy giving her some unwelcome advice about life.

NOVA

13 24 9 p.m.

It took three decades of innovations and mistakes, but when it came time to build the Eiffel Tower for the 1889 World's Fair, it was completed in just two years. This documentary takes a look at the landmark, which ushered in a new age of construction.

Prison Brides

LIFE 9:30 p.m.

Getting married in prison is Olympic-level foreshadowing, but you can't tell that to Lithuanian bride-to-be Gabby, who is taking criticism from her sister regarding her upcoming nuptials. Then, Erin and Michael start building a life together in Ohio.

FBI True

2 6 7 10 p.m.

Going behind-the-scenes with agents involved in a tragically fatal event, this episode welcomes FBI agents who investigated the 1963 bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, Ala., which claimed the lives of four young Black girls.

Tom Selleck in "Blue Bloods"

2024 NBA All-Star Celebrity Game

ESPN 7 p.m.

It's the NBA All-Star game we never knew we needed. Celebs from movies, television and music join NBA legends and WNBA players to test their skills in a basketball game filled with laughs, dunks and copious amounts of debris at Lucas Oil Stadium.

Gold Rush

DISC 8 p.m.

Parker Schnabel decides whether to scale back or bet it all on buying Dominion Creek. Rick Ness returns to mine after going MIA for a year. The Beets finally get access to their coveted claims on the Indian River but an absent kid may derail the dynasty.

Fire Country

2 6 7 9 p.m.

Things aren't always sunny in California. Bode (Max Thieriot) returns in this Season 2 premiere, finding himself stuck behind bars and far from his firefighting crew. Meanwhile, the team responds to a massive earthquake that rocks Edgewater.

Dateline NBC

9 11 12 9 p.m.

Led by host Lester Holt and featuring a series of correspondents and contributing anchors like Kate Snow and Hoda Kotb, this docuseries features compelling interviews, offering an in-depth look at breaking news and ongoing, real-life investigations.

Blue Bloods

2 6 7 10 p.m.

In an effort to break up a human trafficking ring, Jaime (Will Estes) goes undercover. Then, a homicide connected to Danny's (Donnie Wahlberg) former partner draws in Danny and Baez (Marisa Ramirez). And, Frank (Tom Selleck) debates a policy decision.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison

TV Media

Q: When will "Grey's Anatomy" be coming back on TV?

A: You don't have much longer to wait now.

The lengthy writer and actor strikes last year meant that "Grey's Anatomy" was not on ABC's fall schedule for the first time in what seems like a generation (and it very nearly is). But, Season 20 will finally debut on Thursday, March 14.

After so long on TV, the show has, of course, undergone a lot of casting changes. But this season will bring its biggest change yet: Ellen Pompeo, who, as Meredith Grey, has been the central star of the show since its debut, will only appear in a few episodes of the new season.

Pompeo's character is so germane to the show that her name, Grey, is part of the punniness of the title, which also references the classic medical textbook "Gray's Anatomy." Though, several seasons in, the show changed the name of its setting to be Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital, so the punniness can continue even without Pompeo's character.

Pompeo explained her decision to leave in a delightfully frank interview on "The Drew Barrymore Show."

"I'm 53. My brain is like scrambled eggs," she said. "I mean, 19 years, that's more than people keep their kids in their house, like, people keep their kids in their house until they're 18 and then they send them off to college. So this is like me, like, going away to college."

Of course, the show — and Pompeo herself, who will remain a producer and narrator — have done everything they can to ease fans into this momentous change.

Pompeo was only on the show part time last season, and she will still pop up on screen a few times in Season 20, so "it's not a complete goodbye," she said in an interview with Variety magazine.

Q: I heard Mark Wahlberg was planning a sequel to "The Fighter." Is that still happening? Isn't he getting a little old at this point?

A: You might think that cinematic tough

Ellen Pompeo staying on as a producer and narrator in season 20 of "Grey's Anatomy" guy Mark Wahlberg would punch you for saying something like that — and I'm not saying he wouldn't — but he'd also agree with you.

He said in 2022 that "The Fighter," his 2010 biopic of famed Boston boxer Micky Ward, was the movie he'd most like to make a sequel for. But he also noted that he was, indeed, getting a little old to do it.

"I'm probably now aging out of that," he told ScreenRant.com.

But he also noted that a potential sequel has already been written, essentially, in the books of boxing history. The film only covered the beginning of Ward's legendary career, ending before the thing that most sports fans know him for: his trilogy with fellow legend Arturo Gatti.

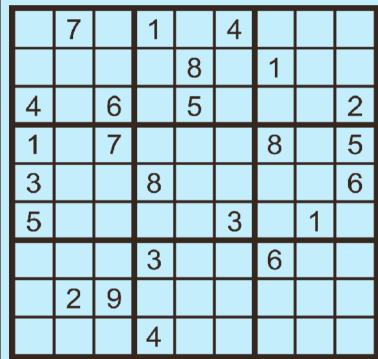

Wahlberg has been toying with the idea of a sequel for over a decade now, and has always said it would be about the trio of Gatti fights.

The first of that trilogy, in 2002, was named Fight of the Year by Ring magazine. They rematched later that year and again in 2003, and those three fights together are considered one of the great trilogies in the history of the sport (or any sport, if you ask a boxing fan).

"I'm always kind of looking for the next thing," Wahlberg said. "But if the audience really wants it, and they really love it, and we can make one better than the first, then I'd be willing to do it again, for sure."
